

ALIBI WITNESSES DISCREDITED

NEW PLANS WOULD PUT UNITED STATES IN AVIATION LEAD

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SUBMITS HIS OWN AND COMMISSION'S PLANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (P)—New plans for putting the United States in a top-notch world aeronautical position were given congress today by President Roosevelt.

Along with specific recommendations of his special aviation commission—including proposals for developing transoceanic services—Mr. Roosevelt submitted his own ideas for centralizing federal supervision over all forms of transportation.

The message went to a congress which had just received a voluminous report from Joseph B. Eastman, railroad coordinator, urging consolidation of all transportation regulation under a revamped interstate commerce commission. In the near future, the president plans to send "all more messages on this general problem."

At the capitol, where members paused in their legislative work to hear Mr. Roosevelt's words read, interest continued focused on the administration's $4,880,000,000 work relief bill. This lump-sum measure still was locked in the senate appropriations committee as treasury spokesmen sought to satisfy senators as to how the money will be spent to employ 5,500,000 jobless.

Before the senate agriculture committee, Secretary Hull urged that the United States take the lead in swinging the world from "blind, dumb, nationalistic measures which are getting us nowhere" and suggested a world conference on stimulation of trade.

Text of Roosevelt Aviation Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (P)—The text of President Roosevelt's aviation message to congress follows:

To the Congress of the United States: Submitting herewith the report of the federal aviation commission appointed by me last summer by direction of the several congresses. The commission has made a diligent study of the broad subject of aviation conditions here and elsewhere and emphasizes the excellent American progress in this new form of transportation. Several days ago I have also studied problems of national defense, of procurement policies and of the extension of air transport services. I invite your attention to these comprehensive surveys.

As I have suggested on many occasions, it becomes more and more apparent that the government of the United States should bring about a consolidation of its methods of supervision over all forms of transportation. When the interstate commerce commission

BUILDER BELIEVES PRESSURE BROUGHT ON NAVY CONTRACTS

HIKE IN PRICES REPORTED AFTER CONFERENCE OF ADMIRALS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (P)—The opinion that "political pressure" applied on the navy after a conference at Hyde Park had brought naval shipbuilding contract awards in 1933 at greatly increased prices was given the senate munitions committee today by Laurence R. Wilder, a shipbuilder.

"The awards were made exactly as bid," Wilder testified, referring to previous assertions that the "Big Three" companies had asked about $12,000,000 each for building cruisers although one of the companies previously had undertaken construction of one of the craft at $8,300,000.

Wilder, chairman of the board of Gulf Industries of Pensacola, declared he had heard the navy protested the award. A conference was held July 29, he said he was informed, at which representatives of the

HOUSE STRONGLY ENDORSED FEDERAL UTILITIES PROGRAM

PROBE INTERLOCKING SYSTEMS OF HOLDING COMPANIES IS COMMENDED

AUSTIN, Jan. 31. (P)—The Texas house today passed 105 to 19 a bill to re-enact a law declaring a moratorium on the forced sale of real estate. The bill was similar to a law passed by the last legislature and held unconstitutional because it impaired the obligation of contracts.

Authors asserted the Texas supreme court's decision was contrary to the federal constitution and a test case would be taken to the United States Supreme court.

They hoped for senate approval tomorrow. The bill would authorize district judges to suspend real estate sales in mortgage proceedings in worthy cases.

AUSTIN, Jan. 31. (P)—The Texas house today strongly endorsed the federal public utility construction program. It adopted a resolution by Representative J. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene commending the federal trade and the federal power commissions for investigating "interlocking systems of holding companies."

Bradbury said hydro-electric projects financed by the government had effected reductions in utility rates in many communities.

ROSS G. HARRIS, SUPERINTENDENT OF IOOF HOME, DIES

PASSED AWAY IN PORT ARTHUR THURSDAY MORNING; BURIAL GREENVILLE

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 31. (P)—Ross G. Harris, 46, superintendent of the I. O. O. F. Widows' Orphans Home at Corsicana, died of high blood pressure at a hospital here early today. He had been visiting a month in the home of his son, Ross Harris, Jr., a service man here.

Survivors were his widow, two sons, Ross Harris, Jr., Port Arthur, and Oden Harris of Corsicana; two brothers, W. G. Harris of Greenville, and John Harris of Ventura, Calif.; and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Wolfe of Greenville and E. A. Eahart of Shreveport.

Ross G. Harris, age 46, superintendent of the I. O. O. F. Home here for the past five years, died in Port Arthur Thursday morning.

UNITED STATES IS URGED USE AIRSHIPS FOR TRANSPORTATION

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS DIRIGIBLES COMPETE WITH FAST STEAMSHIPS

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (P)—A proposal that the United States meet the competition of racing speed foreign liners in the North Atlantic passenger service with dirigibles—government-built but privately operated—was made to congress today by the aviation commission.

The recommendation was one of several designed to maintain for this country "a position of leadership" in aviation, it was predicted like the others on the findings of the commission which was named by President Roosevelt and headed by Clark Howell, Atlanta newspaper publisher.

With a suggested permanent aviation commission guiding civilian aviation policies, the investigating commission suggested to congress that lines of heavier-than-air craft be encouraged by subsidies for transatlantic and trans-pacific routes; that air mail contracts should be on a "strictly commercial basis and that, in the military branch of aviation, a new dirigible and more airplanes would be valuable.

The commission took cognizance of the transatlantic race between nations for passenger service—a race in which the most recent entrants are the high-speed, super-liners now being completed by Great Britain and France—by saying:

"The United States has so far declined to build new liners of immense size and speed to compete across the north Atlantic with the new vessels supported by the British, French, German and Italian governments. x x x speed at sea is being pushed beyond the economic limit and the cost of the mails, express and passengers should go by air. The airship promises here in effective and economical transportation."

GUARDSMEN ORDERED CLEAN UP CRIMINAL KENTUCKY SPOTS

AUTO THEFT RING HEADED BY PROMINENT OFFICIAL IS ONE CHARGE

By ALEX MUNEILL, Associated Press Staff Writer. (Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.) MANCHESTER, Ky., Jan. 31. (P)—National guardsmen and state police rolled into this foothill town today in surprise move to break up what Adjutant General Henry H. Denhardt called "an automobile theft ring headed by a prominent official."

The force, commanded by Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, halted on the outskirts of Manchester a few minutes while the long string of 13 national guard trucks and a half a dozen state police cars closed up.

A score or more of people poured out of nearby houses. Some afoot and some on horseback they preceded the soldiers and police into town. Citizens rushed to the main public square as the trucks rolled in. Heads popped out of

TEMPORARY HALT CALLED BY GOVERNMENT IN ITS RETURN UNEMPLOYABLES TO CHARITY

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON, Jr., Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. (P)—The federal government, an authoritative source disclosed here, has called a temporary halt in its drive to return "unemployables" now remaining on its relief rolls back to the care of states and localities.

Although FERA officials said the goal of their campaign to bring about the return of "unemployables" still left on the rolls would be allowed to remain there until after President Roosevelt's social security program is enacted.

Last month, Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator, said he would seek to remove all 1,500,000 "unemployable" families from the federal rolls to state and local care. The first deadline mentioned was Feb. 1.—thomson

AUTOMATIC PAYOFF MARBLE MACHINES OUTLAWED BY CITY

POLICE DEPARTMENT NOTIFIES OWNERS TO DISCONTINUE OPERATION

A majority of the marble-machine and similar devices were absent from their customary places in Corsicana business houses Thursday as a result of orders issued Wednesday by city officers to owners and operators to stop operation of machines with automatic pay-off units immediately. Police officials said shortly before noon Thursday that no machines had been taken up nor any charges filed, and that operators were obeying the orders.

Officers were detailed to the duty of notifying the owners and operators Wednesday following a conference between Police and Fire Commissioner Edgar Rittersbacher and Chief of Police Will S. Knight. Chief Knight stated that the orders were effective only against those machines which had automatic pay-off and did not apply to the others because he was not sure as to the legal status of the other types of machines.

Machines Disappear. A majority of the machines had disappeared from the places Thursday morning, while others were wired so that patrons could play them. No reports were received of any violation of the order.

Apparently the anti-machine orders were a consequence of a recent resolution passed by the commission after Commissioner Jefferson had reported that he had been approached by numerous citizens complaining of flagrant law violations within the city limits. The resolution commended the

BEAUTY OPERATOR FOUND BOUND AND GAGGED NEAR FIRE

WAS POSSIBLE STATE WITNESS IN HAUPTMANN CASE AT FLEMINGTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. (P)—Mrs. Fannette Rivkin, 43-year-old proprietress of a Bronx beauty parlor, who had offered to testify for the prosecution in the Hauptmann trial, was found today gagged and trussed in her burning establishment, the apparent victim of an attempt at murder.

She was rescued by the superintendent of the building, who noticed smoke coming from the beauty parlor, and entered to find the woman lying unconscious on the floor, a rope tight around her neck, a metal gag in her mouth and her hands and feet securely bound.

With the help of firemen the superintendent, John Espinosa, put out the fire. Mrs. Rivkin was revived by an ambulance doctor, but her condition was such that she could give no immediate explanation of what had happened to her. She had apparently lost consciousness when her frantic attempts to loosen the rope around her neck caused it to tighten instead.

Babbles Hysterically. When she was revived, after nearly an hour's work over her, she started babbling hysterically. "I'll say I don't know," she said.

FEDERAL PROBE OF LONG'S LOUISIANA RULE BEING SOUGHT

SQUARE DEAL ASSOCIATION APPEALS TO PRESIDENT FOR INVESTIGATION

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 31. (P)—The Square Deal Association, bitter anti-Louisiana dictatorship, has appealed directly to President Roosevelt for a congressional investigation of conditions in Louisiana under Huey Long's dictatorship.

The plea was made on the eve of the scheduled resumption by Long of a court "inquiry" into what he charges was a plot to assassinate him.

The hearing, before an East Baton Rouge district judge, is due to be taken up Friday where Senator Long left off last Saturday after presenting witnesses who testified to a conspiracy against Long's life.

The congressional inquiry was requested by the Square Dealers through their executive committee and Lee O. Lester, vice president and acting head of the association.

The request charged an "absolute dictatorship exists in Louisiana depriving our people of their constitutional rights of suffrage and liberty and called on the President and congress to name a committee of 'nationally known men who are not political office holders x x x to study the situation in detail, to read all our late so-called laws, to ascertain for you how completely our people have been subjugated and to report back to you and to congress as quickly as possible.'

COUNTY AND CITY TAX COLLECTORS BUSY ON THURSDAY

FINAL DAY FOR PAYING PROPERTY AND POLL TAXES FOR 1934 ARRIVES

County and city tax collector's offices were the busiest departments of the government Thursday, the final day for the payment of poll and property taxes for 1934. R. L. Harris, assessor and collector of taxes for Navarro county, and J. M. Pugh, city assessor-collector, reported a rush Thursday morning and will keep their respective offices open until midnight Thursday night to care for the last-minute payers.

There had been 1,096 city poll taxes issued shortly after 11 o'clock Thursday morning. The fact that a hotly-contested municipal election is slated for April when a mayor, assessor-collector of taxes, city attorney and two commissioners will be elected is expected to cause a decided last-minute rush for city poll tax return.

STATE BRINGS OUT CRIMINAL RECORDS IN AT LEAST THREE

THREE WITNESSES PLACE HAUPTMANN AT BAKERY ON MARCH 1, 1932

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY, (Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.) FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 31. (P)—Two men with a ladder in an automobile appeared at Princeton, N. J., in the afternoon of the day Baby Charles A. Lindbergh and slain and neither was Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a defense witness testified for Hauptmann today.

Lou Harding, a laborer of Trenton, N. J., said the two men asked him the way to the Lindbergh estate.

Just before him on the witness stand August Van Henke testified he saw Hauptmann in the Bronx on the night of March 1. He was the fourth person to support this alibi.

Harding said: "It was two people come along in a car. Men and was asking me to direct them to Lindbergh's estate and I told them."

"Was either one of those two men this defendant?" Edward J. Reilly, defense chief, asked. "No, sir, it was not," he said.

Saw Ladder in Car. Harding said it was a dark blue car with New Jersey license plates. He said he saw a ladder and a pastboard box about three feet long in the rear of the car. He saw the ladder again, he said on March 2 when he was taken to the Lindbergh home by the police.

The kidnap ladder was pointed out to him in court. "It was something kind of like that," he testified.

Harding testified he told his entire story to the police during investigation of the kidnaping. On cross-examination he admitted he had not been convicted of assault and battery.

Another Surprise Defense Witness

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 31. (P)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense sought today to break the state's circumstantial case by producing a witness with a third alibi witness to place Hauptmann more than 60 miles away from the kidnaping and murder of baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

This Kissa said he saw Hauptmann in Christian Frederick's Bronx bakery restaurant shortly after 8:15 p. m., March 1, 1932, the night the child was stolen. His word supported the testimony given before him by Elvert Carlstrom, a year-old carpenter's helper, and Mrs. A. J. Hauptmann, wife of the defendant.

Meanwhile, in New York, a woman who offered to testify for the state against Hauptmann in connection with his spending of Lindbergh ransom bills, was found unconscious, bound and gagged.

DALLAS YOUTH IN SHADOW OF ELECTRIC CHAIR BECAUSE OF ERROR IN HIS COMMUTATION

OFFICIAL TEXAS SOCIETY CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO SPEAK

IMPORTANT MEETING AT COURTHOUSE FRIDAY MORNING AT TEN

A. H. Abbott, Austin, executive secretary of The Texas Society for Crippled Children, Inc., will make an address here Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the district courtroom, it was announced Thursday by Mrs. H. G. Brown and Mrs. R. W. Sheffield.

Officials of Corsicana and Navarro county, including the county judge, county commissioners, court, the mayor, members of the city commission and officials of the Chamber of Commerce will be present. The possibility of securing a free crippled children's clinic for Corsicana. Officials of the Society are especially anxious to establish such a clinic in this city on account of the central location, accessibility, and the curative qualities contained in the warm mineral water available here. It is pointed out.

Besides the official representation at the Friday morning meeting the general public is cordially invited and expected to attend as all details concerning the proposed clinic will be fully explained.

DALLAS, Jan. 31. (P)—Cecil Short, 23, who yesterday was sentenced to death instead of life because of a clerk's error, today was removed to the state penitentiary at Huntsville. He indicated he would continue his fight for existence.

The youth, convicted for the slaying of a 75-year-old negro during an $11 robbery, heard Judge Noland G. Williams formally sentence him to death yesterday after it was disclosed a commutation to life imprisonment granted by Ex-Governor Miriam A. Ferguson had been dated seven months prior to commission of the crime.

A clerical error in the proclamation made the date read Jan. 4, 1934. The crime was committed on Aug. 15, 1934.

The trial court assessed the death penalty and the court of criminal appeals sustained the verdict but Governor Ferguson granted clemency. Several days ago Judge Williams asked the youth for the proclamation for use in entering it into the court's minutes.

Short hugged the proclamation and refused to let it leave his sight, explaining "it means life to me and no one can have it." Judge Williams order a photocopy made from the secretary of state. It was then the error was detected.

ROOSEVELT PLEASSED WITH HIS BIRTHDAY CELEBRATIONS WHILE MILLIONS AID HEALTH DRIVE

By FRANCIS CARPENTER, Associated Press Staff Writer. WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Jan. 31. (P)—Happy Americans, smiling just as broadly as the honor guest, had a huge time at the nationwide birthday party given President Franklin D. Roosevelt for the benefit of infantile paralysis sufferers throughout the land.

Health funds grew as the fifty-third birthday of the president passed into history to the accompaniment of cheers, laughter and dancing from New York to 'Prisco and from Dixie to the Great Lakes. Thousands of dollars were raised for the fight against infantile paralysis.

The 200 patients at the Warm Springs Foundation and their relatives cut a huge cake which bore the inscription "Happy Birthday, President Roosevelt." The cake was five feet high and it bore 53 candles, although the Roosevelt family doesn't count above 21 when it comes to birthdays.

Children Have Show. The children here gave a costume show, dressing up to depict famous personages of the day.

Last year the Warm Springs Foundation, which President Roosevelt was instrumental in organizing after winning a fight against infantile paralysis, received 1,000,000 from a national birthday party. This year the money raised by yesterday's celebrations will be divided between local agencies and a national research fund.

The president in a nationwide radio broadcast from the white house last night told persons able

RECEIVE SAME TREATMENT ACCORDED THEM IN PAST, SAYS OFFICIALS

Local relief officials have received orders to continue to treat unemployables after January 1 exactly as they have in the past they reported late Wednesday and are making their plans on the basis of those instructions.

Although no relief will be secured from the burden of the unemployables, Friday officials are anticipating that the registration of all clients that has been in progress for the past month will result in the dropping of several hundred cases from the rolls which now approximate 3,700 cases.

It was indicated that the majority of those who would be dropped were tenant farmers, share croppers, and farm day laborers who had secured agreements from landowners and other employers that they would be taken care of in the future. No estimate of the actual numbers of cases to be dropped was available.

ANSWERS CONFUSED SOMETIMES BUT HE MAINTAINS STORY PHRASE USED IN TESTIMONY ALMOST IDENTICAL WITH RANSOM NOTES

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 29.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's own words—uttered on the witness stand and written in letters—were used against him today in the state's drive to put him in the electric chair for the kidnaping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

When he used the phrase, "Oh, that is planned for a year already," Attorney General David T. Wilentz confronted him with the kidnap notes and reread phrases from them which were almost exactly similar, "this kidnaping was planned for a year already," and "this kidnaping was prepared for a year already."

A German, written by Hauptmann to Pincus Fisch, brother of Isador Fisch, were put into evidence in Hauptmann's cross-examination in an effort to blast away Hauptmann's use of the phrase. The possession of money which the state has employed to incriminate him.

One of the letters, read by a translator, said in variance with Hauptmann's testimony in that it said Fisch's share in the joint fur business was paid in with skins, not cash.

Hauptmann's defense has tried to show that much of the cash included in a state computation to show that Hauptmann's assets increased more than $44,000 after payment of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom, came from Fisch.

Hauptmann's explanation of the discrepancy between the letter and his testimony was that he learned later his letter was incorrect.

Hauptmann Uses Phrase In Note

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 29.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann on the witness stand today uttered a phrase almost identical with phrases used in two of the fourteen Lindbergh ransom notes.

His prosecutor immediately seized upon the incident to emphasize the method of search.

Hauptmann's phrase on the witness stand, in answer to a cross-examination question about an intended trip to Germany after payment of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom, was:

"Oh, that is planned for a year already."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz seized a sheaf of kidnap notes and read from two of them, phrases which were identical.

"This kidnaping was planned for a year already."

And: "This kidnaping was prepared for a year already."

How can I say it otherwise?" asked Hauptmann.

Wilentz said:

"Well, you can say, 'planned for more than a year,' 'planned already for a year,' 'planned a year ago.'"

Hauptmann was still undergoing cross-examination as lunch recess halted his trial for kidnaping and murdering Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Phrase Was Highlight.

The "year already" phrases were the highlight of a morning of cross-examination about his personal and financial transactions during the period between payment of the Lindbergh ransom ($50,000) April 2, 1932, and his arrest on September 19, 1934.

Wilentz brought in the name of Fritz Hahn, a relative, and Hauptmann denied queries designed to make him admit that Hahn had seen large packages of money concealed in Hauptmann's photograph.

He also denied ever telling Mrs. Hahn that he was giving Mrs. Hauptmann $1,000 for a trip to Germany.

He denied the prosecutor's charge that he had signaled Mrs. Hauptmann in the courtroom several days ago so that she shouted "you are lying!" to a state witness.

Spent Ransom Bill.

He admitted spending $2 to 15 of the Lindbergh ransom bills, which he said Isador Fisch had left him, for living expenses, and said that he had intended to send the balance, less $2,000 Fisch owed him, to Fisch's relatives.

He admitted that after the time of the ransom, which he denied collecting, he took a trip to Florida, his wife quit her job and took a trip to Germany, and he purchased several expensive articles, such as a canoe, a radio and a pair of field glasses.

Hauptmann appeared at a loss for words when Wilentz brought up the phrase of his "year already" phrase with the ransom note phrases.

"How would you say," Hauptmann retorted.

Reilly jumps to feet.

ter in the courtroom after Wilentz asked: "Didn't he say to you, 'My, this is a swell racket. It must have cost you a lot of money?'"

"I got the impression," Hauptmann replied, "you are making up a big story here."

The prisoner said he couldn't remember Fisch being in his house.

Wilentz brought up the disturbance caused by the days ago by Hauptmann's wife, Edna, accused Hauptmann of standing the incident.

"Weren't you told in this courtroom to signal your wife when a witness came on the stand, to hold her at her?"

"That is ridiculous!" Hauptmann said.

Mrs. Hauptmann had shouted "you are lying!" a former employer who was testifying for the state against her husband.

Wilentz asked Hauptmann if he knew Violet Sharpe, the maid in the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, who did not, and subsequently that he knew no one connected with the Lindbergh household.

Violet Sharpe committed suicide just before police were to question her in the kidnaping investigation. Mrs. Morrow is the mother of Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, whose son was stolen.

Stock and Fur Business.

Wilentz plunged back today into Hauptmann's stock and fur business dealings with the Isador Fisch. Hauptmann claimed Fisch gave him the ransom money which was found in his garage after his arrest; also that Fisch put much of the cash with a government accountant credited to Hauptmann to show that his and his wife's assets increased more than $44,000 after the $50,000 full Lindbergh ransom was paid.

The prosecutor made Hauptmann admit that in 1932, after the ransom was paid, he bought a $400 radio, a $126 pair of field glasses, a canoe, took a trip to Florida and sent his wife on a trip to Germany; also that his wife quit work.

Hauptmann explained: "I was working—I made enough money on the market and on the fur. I did work. In the market and as a carpenter."

But Wilentz brought out that he earned only a total of $200 as a carpenter after the date of the ransom, which was April, 1932.

"Didn't she say this wife is going to you, 'We have only got a few dollars in the bank?'"

"I say she was not hollering at me when I quit the job," Hauptmann said.

Wilentz asked "im why he put the ransom bills, which Hauptmann had said Fisch gave him, into circulation; it was because he thought it was similar to phrases used in two of the fourteen Lindbergh ransom notes."

"There is practically no particular reason why I put it in circulation," Hauptmann replied. "I just keep as well put it in the box and have it there. I don't see really any particular for put it in circulation."

Hauptmann told police when he was arrested that he had been circulating the bills only a few weeks. He told Wilentz he owned only 12 or 15 of the bills, taking them two or three at a time as he needed them for living expenses.

Tuesday's Story of Hauptmann Trial

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 29.—(P)—Traps and pitfalls beset Bruno Richard Hauptmann when he was called back again to the witness chair to undergo further cross-examination at the hands of Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

The state planned to open up today on the apparent discrepancies which the phlegmatic Bronx convict allowed to creep into his testimony in the two crowded days he has been on the stand.

Throughout Hauptmann's direct and cross examination, the legal battery and experts at the state's table have been checking every word of his story. Today the plan was to capitalize on those checks and thrust away at the weaknesses in Hauptmann's armor.

Anthony M. Hauck, of the prosecution staff, after conferring with others at the state's table said it would probably require all morning to complete the cross examination of the defendant.

This would indicate Hauptmann would be on the stand most of the day. His direct examination was expected to be lengthy for the defense will seek to repair what damages the prosecution has done to his story. The state's re-cross examination will likewise be protracted.

To Follow.

Mrs. Hauptmann, who the defense says will follow her husband on the stand, was not expected to be reached until late in the afternoon.

Hauptmann appeared in court at 9:45 a. m.

The same slight smile was on his face as he walked in, clutching at each wrist by a guard.

After sitting down in his chair back of the defense table, he talked with Lloyd Fisch, one of the defense staff. He smiled as he talked as though relating a little amusing incident of his jail life.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz came in soon after, smiling and laughing with friends seated near the prosecution table. He did not look at Hauptmann who was bent forward, earnestly talking to Fisher and Frederick A. Pope, another of his counsel.

The kidnap leader, one of the most important state's evidence against Hauptmann since the testimony that Hauptmann tools and lumber built it, was set up by the witness stand. At its foot was placed Hauptmann's plane, the tool allegedly used in building it.

Court Is Convened.

The other defense attorneys, Edward J. Reilly and Egbert Rosecrans, appeared at the defense table.

Court convened at 10:03.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, the state police head, and Colonel Henry Brocklinridge, Lindbergh's legal advisor, came in as the jury was being polled.

Hauptmann, trailed by his guard, stepped quickly up to the stand and with a serious intent look stared at the attorney general awaiting the first question.

Q. At April 2, 1932, when it was testified that $50,000 was paid, you said you resigned from your job?

A. Yes.

gaged problem in a little mathematical problem of what his salary as a carpenter would be at $80 a month.

"I didn't figure it out yet," said Hauptmann.

"It was about $266 wasn't it?" Wilentz estimated.

Hauptmann nodded.

Q. You were paid twice monthly, bi-monthly?

A. Yes.

Q. And you said you went to work on March 15 or 16?

A. Yes.

Q. So if you had worked a half month you'd have $40 if it was $80 a month?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you paid by check or cash?

A. I guess it was by check.

Wilentz Is Gentle.

Wilentz kept his voice down. He was gentle, almost silky as he questioned the witness. Hauptmann's answers were in the same colorless monotone which has characterized most of his testimony.

The figuring went on with Hauptmann mentioning the difficulty of Sundays and holidays.

"When you figure 25 working days in a month it would be $4 a day," said Wilentz, "figured at the rate of $100 a month?"

"How do you figure dem days of Sundays and holidays?" he asked Wilentz.

Q. The wages were by the month?

A. Yes.

Q. Why did you not quit at the end of March?

A. I always quit at the end of the week.

Wilentz showed Hauptmann a pay check which he said was his.

Q. You got that money from this employer?

A. Yes.

Q. That's the pay check for March?

At Rate of $100 Per Month.

"That would be at the rate of $100 a month?" Wilentz asserted.

"It would have been $40 if you worked one half a month," he said.

Q. The check is not for $40 is it?

A. No.

Q. If you worked one day less than one half a month, they should have taken off $2.50. But they took off $3.33. That was too much?

A. Yes.

"I offer the check in evidence," Wilentz said.

Q. Now you worked two more days, April?

A. Yes.

Q. And you got paid $3.33 a day?

A. Yes.

He identified the pay check for those two days and it was accepted in evidence.

Q. Now you cashed that check at the National Lumber and Mill Work Company?

A. Yes.

Q. That was the ladder yard where the kidnap ladder wood was traced by state experts.

Q. You were employed there at one time?

A. Yes.

Wilentz, changing his course, suddenly introduced into the proceedings the name of the Morrow estate maid who committed suicide as she was to be questioned after the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Q. Did you know Violet Sharpe?

A. No.

Q. Did you know anyone who knew Violet Sharpe?

A. No.

Q. You had never even heard of Violet Sharpe?

A. There were stories in the newspapers.

Q. I mean prior to March 1, 1932.

A. No.

Q. You never knew anyone connected with the Lindbergh household prior to the kidnaping?

A. No.

Attacking Defense Efforts.

Wilentz was attacking the defense efforts to throw suspicion on Violet Sharpe and other Morrow and Lindbergh domestics.

The interrogator next produced Hauptmann's large account book.

Q. In May, 1932, you bought a radio?

A. Yes.

Q. How much did it cost?

A. $400.

Q. You bought field glasses?

A. Yes.

Q. How much did you pay?

A. $126.

Q. In July, 1932?

A. Yes.

Q. Before you bought the radio, you had a Victrola in the front room?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you put money in the Victrola?

A. Possibly I keep the rent in it.

Q. I mean lots of money, packages of money?

A. No.

Q. Didn't you put the Fisch money in it?

A. No.

Q. Didn't you have $5,500 from Fisch?

A. Yes.

Denies Money In Victrola.

Q. At any rate, early in 1932 you had no money in the Victrola?

A. No.

Q. Isn't it a fact you opened the Victrola in the presence of Fritz Hahn and there were two packages of money on the top?

A. No. Absolutely not. (Grinning.)

You say now that when Mr. Hahn was in your home in April or May, 1932, you didn't open the Victrola and he saw the bundles of money?

A. No. (Laughing tone.)

Q. Didn't you tell him he could not go in the bedroom?

A. I can't say that I said it.

Q. Didn't Mr. Hahn ask you about the money?

A. No.

Q. He didn't?

A. I really can't say he was ever in our house.

Stopped at House.

Wilentz then drew from the witness he had taken the Hahn's legal advisor, and stopped at the Hauptmann house.

"I really can't say he was ever in our house," he repeated.

Q. Mr. Hahn is a good friend of yours?

A. Yes.

Q. He don't owe you any money?

A. No.

Defendant Smiling.

Q. Do you remember saying to Mrs. Hahn you were giving your wife about $1,000 to go to Europe?

A. No. (Still smiling.)

Q. Will you say Mrs. Hahn was ever in your house?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Will you say she wasn't there?

A. Maybe when I was out—Q. When you were there?

A. I don't remember.

Wilentz then gradually rising to a badgering pitch, pressed the witness to say categorically whether or not he had ever invited the Hahns to his house, but Hauptmann said he could not recall.

Wilentz turned to the friendship between the Hauptmanns and the Hahns. Wilentz asked if Hahn exclaimed about the expensive radio.

"You are making a story," Hauptmann said.

"We'll see about that," Wilentz replied.

Q. Didn't you signal your wife to jump up when a witness was on the stand?

A. That is ridiculous.

Q. Weren't you told to change your story about the wood yesterday?

A. No.

Swings to New Line of Attack.

Wilentz swung to another line of attack, that of his alibi for the kidnap night.

Q. Who told you to change your story and tell about the dog?

A. Nobody. I found out about it myself.

Q. Never mentioned it, did you?

A. No.

Q. Never said anything about walking the streets with a dog?

A. I remember it afterwards that I think of it.

Q. Why didn't you think of it then?

A. I guess I know but I don't think it was important.

Q. It wasn't important. The only important thing in that extradition proceeding was whether you were in the Bronx the night of the kidnaping as you testified or in Hopewell as New Jersey claimed?

A. Yes.

Q. So it was important, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

The questions, shot rapidly at the question-spoken defendant, turned to the market transactions.

Q. You sold short did you?

A. No.

Q. Did you buy put and call?

In other words it's a hedge?

A. Insurance.

Technical Details.

Wilentz went into the technical details of puts-and-calls, winding up "you learned all the tricks of the trade in Wall Street, didn't you?"

He got no answer from the witness.

Hauptmann, smiling, corrected Wilentz that he did not lose by won "a few dollars" on put and call.

Q. The only money you put in was from Fisch from furs and from your bank account?

A. And a mortgage.

Q. You had hundreds of dollars in silver change?

A. I'd like to explain to the jury.

The large amount of silver, the state contends, came from the change Hauptmann obtained by passing ransom money.

Q. Where did you get all that silver?

Mistake Is Claimed.

A. It was a mistake. Some times on the slip the deposit slip I wrote it down, I get the bills down below the line where it reads silver.

Q. You mean that some of the deposit slips show silver but what we call silver were really bills? That right?

Wilentz produced the deposit slips.

Q. Take a look at this it shows coin $186.

A. That is wrong. It means bills. You can't expect to carry $200 in silver in my pocket.

Q. But isn't that your handwriting on that slip?

A. Yes. But I never carried that much silver.

Wilentz showed him another slip.

Q. You put the bills in the right place then?

A. No, that's all right.

FRIENDS WHO WENT FISHING WHEN TROUBLES GOT THICK *

A Great Catch on the Familiar Lake--Breakfast on Shore, As Guests of Their Leader--Peter Restored and Re-commissioned.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

"I go a-fishing," said Simon Peter, in a crisis time. Troubles had overwhelmed him. In the crash of his world, he had crashed, too. The dream of a new life of leadership in a kingdom of which Jesus of Nazareth would be Lord and ended on Golgotha's bloody cross, and had been buried in the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea. So there was nothing left but to trudge up to Galilee and resume the old humdrum business of fishing for a livelihood. At least, that remained.

Peter's "I go a-fishing" has been the solace and inspiration of many another man since, and problems and cares have grown too thick for him. There is no path to surcease and serenity surer than the road to the fishing waters. The click of a reel, the whirring of a running line, the struggle with a fish, the life of a fisherman knows how these bring balm and new vitality to a worn and harried spirit. Peter's fishing was not fishing; but it promoted the zest of the chase, and the healing solace of the lake. Wise is he, who, when life gets to be too much for him, can say with Peter, "I go a-fishing." It seeking fish, Peter found again his Lord.

Out-of-Doors Men Too many religious books reek of the "study lamp"; whereas the Bible breathes the fresh air of out-of-doors. Jesus and His disciples were men of the open; lustily, hale, vigorous men, who could tramp the roads and fields of Galilee, and endure all kinds of weather without. No commentator, so far as I am aware, has ever pointed out that Jesus knew how to build a fire in the open. It would not be a bad idea, to make that art an ordination test for preachers; though some of them would fume it, and thereafter fall in all that it implies.

It was from the fishing that Peter was called to devote himself to discipleship; and a great haul marked the occasion. Now again it was from the fishing that he was summoned, for restoration and re-commissioning; and once more a big catch accompanied the appearance of the Master. It was a rich man's test ord that we have: note how carefully he sets down the number of the catch, one hundred and fifty-three, all big ones.

There are still big fish in the Lake of Galilee, as we have often seen, though I never land one such. My little daughter once caught, on a spinner trailed from our boat, a delicious fish that we later had cooked at the Hotel Galilee in Nazareth. So I know how the fish are the prizes which Jesus broiled over the charcoal that morning by the Lake. For He could cook, as well as build a woodman's fire, this Lord of the open spaces. Evidently, the fish He had already prepared for His hungry friends, Jesus had caught Himself.

Overboard For Peter! Heart-heavy was Peter, brooding over his denial by the fire of coals in Calaphas' palace; but his old impetuous nature remained. So when he recognized the man on the beach as the risen Christ, he leaped into the lake, clothes and all, and swam the intervening hundred yards to the shore. We may be sure that Jesus loved him none the less for that.

Seven men of the disciples made up that fishing party, which had toiled all night and caught nothing. At the Stranger's word, they cast the net on the right side of the boat, and so bulky was the catch that they could not lift it aboard. They towed it to shore, where Peter lent his lusty arm to the landing. This last of the Master's miracles identified Him; yet a strange restraint of silence was on His friends. But now their brains must have teemed with thoughts too great for words.

By Another Fire. By one fire, in wrong company, Peter had denied his Lord. Now, by another fire, in fellowship with his dearest friends, and with that same Lord Peter got back the commission he had forfeited.

All the point of the famous colloquy is lost in the English translation. It hinges on the two words in Greek which are both used in our versions. The first word, as Jesus employed it, was the supreme significance of love, "AGAPE," used in such verses as "God is love." Peter responded with a lesser word, "PHILEO," meaning to love as one person another. In the dialogue might be translated: Galley 2--S. S. Lesson 2-3-35.... "Simon, son of John," the old name, not the new one given by Jesus--"AGAPEST thou Me more than these others?"

"Yea, Lord; Thou knowest that I PHILEO Thee." "Feed My lambs." "Simon, son of John, AGAPEST thou Me?" "Yea, Lord; Thou knowest that I PHILEO Thee." "Tend My sheep." "Simon, son of John, PHILEOST thou Me?--do you even love Me as one man loves another? Wond'rously, I am sure, but the Saviour should accept us even on our own, lower level of understanding."

This reply broke Peter all up, that the Master should question his love even on the poor human scale, in deep humility, he replied, "Lord, Thou knowest that I PHILEO Thee." "Feed My sheep."

Called to the Work. Unlike an ecclesiastical court, which calls for formal recantation of a heretic, in elaborate phaseology, Jesus gave the entering disciple only one test and one obligation: love and service; he should feed the Master's little lambs (How this echoes, "Suffer little children"), and tend the flock of the sheepdom of which he had been restored. Conviction is best expressed by conduct. The penitent who goes about bemoaning his sins, and making fulsome promises, is rather a nuisance; but the pardoned one who busies himself about the Lord's work is following the Divine program.

This is a practical Lesson, not a theological treatise. It counsels the man in trouble to seek relief in his favorite action or recreation. And it makes vivid the lofty truth that Jesus forgives sins. Nobody need ever be hopeless with or about himself. The love that restored renegade Peter has pardon even for those who deny the Lord in the hour when He most needs friends. There is opportunity, and work for every backslider.

Love's final proof is service. Restored, in favor, the penitent is commissioned to follow Christ--and to carry on His shepherd work of caring for God's hungry, foolish sheep.

With A Cross To A Cross. As a reminder that Peter's notorious inability was at an end, Jesus recalled his former helplessness and impulsiveness; but reminded him that the day was coming when he would no longer be the self-reliant, self-willed Peter. Others would guide him, and guide him; and his end would be a cross. Thus, literally would he follow Jesus.

On Peter's sturdy back was placed the cross of service, which he should bear until he reached the martyr's cross at the end. The Bible does not tell how Peter died; but earliest Christian tradition reports him as crucified at Rome.

The International Sunday School Lesson for February 3 is: "Peter's Restoration." --John 21:11-19.

MANY NOW PAYING DELINQUENT TAXES COLLECTOR REPORTS

Payment of current city taxes are about the same as last year, J. M. Pugh, city assessor-collector, stated Wednesday noon while delinquent tax payments are fine and are coming in in large numbers.

There had been 925 city poll taxes paid a noon Wednesday. Pugh announced that his office would be open until midnight Thursday for the last-minute payment of polls and taxes.

A last minute rush for city poll tax receipts is expected as a hotly-contested municipal election is slated for April when a mayor, city commissioners, assessor-collector of taxes and city attorney will be elected.

Would Divide Up Cotton Exports Among Nations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30. (P)--Creation of an international board to divide up the world's export markets among the producing and manufacturing nations was proposed today to a senate committee by Secretary Roper.

Roper was testifying before the senate agriculture committee after Secretary Wallace had told it that restriction of cotton acreage in this country must continue until foreign demand for the staple increased.

The commerce secretary proposed that the international board start its work with cotton and later broaden its scope to other agricultural and manufactured products.

He said if the assignment of quotas of agricultural and manufactured goods were given "and the nations of the earth through some regulatory power could compel the member nations to stick by their quotas, the question of overproduction and surpluses would be wiped out in a very short time."

Much Thievery Is Reported Recently Wortham Community

WORTHAM, Jan. 30. (Sp.)--Monday night thieves broke into garages, and took wheels off new cars and the cars were left sitting on ground. Robes and accessories were also taken. Numbers of garages were broken into where there were old cars and cars were unmolested.

Much petty thieving has been going on in Wortham for some time. Whole lines of clothes hanging out to dry have been taken and some have lost entire lots of cured meats, chickens, turkeys and anything available have been reported stolen.

None of the stolen property has been recovered or any clues located, it is stated.

Sick and Convalescent. Mrs. John King and baby son were discharged today from the P. and S. Hospital.

Mrs. Alice Coats, accident patient at the P. and S. Hospital, was discharged today.

J. V. Herlin underwent an operation for appendicitis at the P. and S. Hospital Wednesday afternoon.

James Edwin Fortson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fortson, who underwent an operation this week at the Navarr County Clinic, was doing nicely Wednesday.

DRS. R. C. CURTIS AND E. P. NORWOOD IN NEW BUILDING

Corsicana's newest medical center was occupied Wednesday but the formal opening will not be held until later in the week. Drs. R. C. Curtis and E. P. Norwood, owners of the new structure, announced.

Located on West Sixth avenue, three blocks away from the business section, the city, the doctors have erected a complete brick veneer building that is really a four-bed hospital for their specialized work.

Separate entrances to the suites of offices have been arranged and waiting rooms are artistically decorated and furnished. Each suite of rooms has been constructed to meet the special needs of each of the doctors, with ample room for treatment and for post-operative care.

Latest types of equipment has been added by the doctors who have devoted strenuous days of planning to make their practitioners' homes complete. The new structure cost approximately $5,000.

Formal announcement will be made later in the week of the official opening. Move from their former quarters in the State National Bank building was completed Tuesday night, and they resumed their practices in the new structure Wednesday although some of the finishing touches were still being added.

THE WHITE PARADE

Directed by Irving Cummings

EXTRA! "THE MARCH OF TIME" IS NOW ON THE SCREEN

Something New (NOT A NEWS REEL)

Coming to Palace in White Parade

Described as one of the most human and dramatic screen stories of the year, Jesse L. Lasky's "The White Parade," a Fox Film production, will be seen at the Palace theatre beginning on Sunday.

Loretta Young and John Boles play the leading roles in this first of all films to deal with the student nurse-training days, her heart aches and her happiness in service. To judge from advance accounts, the picture sets a new high for faithfulness to life and for discovering heart throbs, pathos and laughter in the most realistic of material.

Student nurses--the girls nobody knows! These are the subjects of this tender and touching story, which Director Irving Cummings has brought to the screen under the supervision of Lasky.

A notable cast is lined up in support of the two leading players. Among them are Dorothy Wilson, Muriel Kirkland, Astrid Allwyn, Frank Melton, Walter Johnson, Jane Darwell, Frank Conroy, Sara Haden and Joyce Compton.

Former Corsicanan's Son Died Recently Los Angeles, Calif.

Relatives in Corsicana have received word of the death in Los Angeles, Calif., of Albert Nix, son of a former Corsicanan, Mrs. Carrie Harle Nix, who passed away there after an illness of three days with pneumonia. Old-timers in Corsicana will remember Mr. Nix as Miss Carrie Harle, one of the early graduates of the Corsicana high school and daughter of a prominent early-day Navarr county family. Mrs. Nix was a niece of Mrs. Marion Martin and a sister of Mrs. Mortie Hedrick of Corsicana, and has many friends here who will regret to learn of her sorrow.

OFFERS ALIBIS FOR IMPORTANT DATES IN CONNECTION CRIME

SURPRISE WITNESS ALSO SAWS SAW HAUPTMANN AT BAKERY ON KIDNAP NIGHT

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 30.—(P)—Two witnesses—one his wife—today supported Bruno Richard Hauptmann's alibi for the night baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was kidnapped and slain.

Edward Carlstrom, a carpenter of Swedish extraction who said he remembered because it was his birthday, testified he saw Hauptmann in the Bronx at 8:30 p. m. on March 1, 1932.

Mrs. Hauptmann testified her husband called for her at her place of employment that evening and went home with her around 10 p. m.

The Lindbergh baby was stolen from his crib in Hopewell, N. J., more than sixty miles from between 7 and 10 p. m., on March 1, 1932.

At Bakery. Carlstrom said he worked in Dunnellen, N. J., on March 1, 1932, and went to eat in the evening at a delicatessen bakery in the Bronx where he knew Mrs. Hauptmann as a waitress. He had been eating there for two months he said.

He was in the bakery for 20 minutes and Mrs. Hauptmann waited upon him he said.

"Now, while you were in there did you see anybody else?" Edward J. Reilly defense chief asked.

Carlstrom pointed at Hauptmann in the courtroom.

"I saw that fellow sitting right down there."

Hauptmann stood up.

"You were sure he was in there?"

"I am sure."

He said he saw a picture of Hauptmann in a newspaper after his arrest. He told somebody, who told Reilly, he said he did not know Hauptmann personally.

He admitted on cross-examination that the first time he saw Hauptmann after the incident in the bakery was in the courtroom.

Hauptmann laughed at him.

"What was there about him that impressed himself upon your mind that you could remember his face as long as you live?" Attorney General David T. Wilentz asked.

"Because he was laughing at me in the bakery. Because I got mad at him and sure he was at somebody then I remember the face."

Wilentz hammered hard at the witness in an effort to show that contrary to his assertion that he was not personally acquainted with Hauptmann he was actually in close association with him.

He confused the witness by asking him if he saw Hauptmann's picture in newspapers with Reilly right after the arrest.

Reilly said he was sure he saw Reilly did not enter the case as Hauptmann's attorney until long after the arrest.

Carlstrom admitted employment at the Majestic apartments in New York after previously saying "I don't think so" to that question.

Hauptmann also worked at the Majestic apartments and quit there two days after payment of the Lindbergh $50,000 ransom on April 2, 1932. Carlstrom said, however, that he did not know Hauptmann there.

"Did you know anybody that worked with you at the Majestic apartments?" Wilentz asked.

"No I don't" he said.

Reilly then asked Hauptmann to refer to alibi to Hauptmann's jury today for every important date connected with the crime.

The state taking her over for cross-examination immediately attacked her credibility on her assertion she had never used a shelf in a broom closet and therefore had never seen the shoebox in which Hauptmann said the dead Isador Fisch gave him the $14,000 ransom money. She admitted she did use the shelf.

Says Hauptmann With Her. She said Hauptmann was with her in New York on the night of March 1, 1932 when Baby Lindbergh was stolen from his crib more than 60 miles away.

She testified he was at home with her and a friend on April 2, 1932, when Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon said he paid Hauptmann the $50,000 ransom in a Bronx graveyard.

She said Hauptmann spent the evening of November 26, 1933, at home. A theatre cashier had testified he proffered a Lindbergh ransom note in payment for a ticket on that night. The day was prior to the time Hauptmann said Fisch gave him the shoebox with the money.

Mrs. Hauptmann succeeded her husband on the stand. On her testimony she said she would not reach the top shelf of the broom closet and for that reason never used it.

Damaging Admission. Attorney General David T. Wilentz made her admit she kept a shoe box with coupons on it that she said she often took the box down, also that she kept bags and curtain rods on the shelf.

She insisted nevertheless that she never saw the shoe box.

Wilentz attacked the important alibi she offered for her husband, asked her:

"And so when they (the police) asked you about March 1, you said, 'that's too far back, I can't remember whether my husband was with me or not?'"

"When they asked me about the first of March, I believe I said that," she admitted.

She also disputed the testimony of a state witness, Mrs. Ella Achenbach, her former employer, who said the Hauptmanns called on her in March 1932, after kidnapping, saying they had just returned from a trip, Hauptmann limping. Mrs. Hauptmann said the call was paid in 1931; further that she had had a quarrel with Mrs. Achenbach about pay.

Edward J. Reilly, Hauptmann's defense chief, asked Mrs. Hauptmann:

"Now on Tuesday, March 1, 1932, did your husband call for you that night?"

"I did."

"At what time?"

"Well, maybe it was 7 o'clock, maybe quarter after 7, maybe quarter before 7. I don't know exactly the minute."

"And how long did he remain there (at a bakery) before you and he left to go home?"

"Oh, about half past 9, quarter to 10."

The Lindbergh baby was stolen between 7:30 and 10 p. m., on March 1, more than 60 miles away.

Mrs. Hauptmann also offered an alibi for her husband for the night of April 2, 1932 when Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon gave her the $50,000 ransom.

She said Hans Kloeppel and Hauptmann and herself were in the Hauptmann home.

"And what were you doing?"

"My husband and Hans Kloeppel were playing the mandolin and guitar, and after this we played cards all three of us."

She produced new testimony about the Lindbergh kidnapping, saying she had been down in front of the house in which they had an apartment. The landlady refused she said to buy the lumber on the wagon, so the peddler left it and it was used to build the garage which the $14,000 Lindbergh ransom money was found.

The state had produced expert testimony to trace the kidnap ladder to Hauptmann through its lumber containing part of it taken from the Hauptmanns' attic and part purchased at a Bronx lumber yard.

Did Not See Fisch Packages. She was unable to say definitely that the dead Isador Fisch brought packages or bundles to her home during a farewell party before he sailed for Germany to die. Hauptmann who left the stand just before his wife took it said Fisch gave him a shoe box containing the Lindbergh ransom money and that he (Hauptmann) was unaware of its contents until months later.

"He brought some suitcases maybe a week or two before he left," she said.

Hauptmann said the shoe box became ransacked and that he discovered its contents accidentally when he hit it with a broom. It was because she could not reach the shelf Mrs. Hauptmann said, that she was unable to testify that a shoe box had actually been kept on it.

Says Trusted Her Husband. Reilly bringing up the matter of Mrs. Hauptmann's joint bank accounts with her husband, Wilentz, in the state's case against him, asked her:

"You trusted your husband, didn't you?"

"Who shouldn't trust a husband?"

Reilly turned her over to the prosecution for cross-examination remarking:

"I don't know. That speaks well for some of us."

Hauptmann's own testimony ended with cross-examination by Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who made him admit that a payroll record did not support his claim that he worked on April 2, 1932, the day of the ransom payment.

He also testified for the final time that he could not now say either yes or no as to whether he had written Dr. Condon's telephone number and address on a panel found in his home.

"You have a very good mind, haven't you?" the attorney remarked.

"Well, I don't think so, not so good," said Hauptmann.

Wednesday's Story Of Hauptmann Trial

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 30.—(P)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the Bronx alien, today began his fourth day in the witness chair at the Lindbergh murder trial, and his counsel sought from him testimony to counteract the damaging admissions wrung from him by the state.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense attorney, asked Reilly to relate his cross-examination of the defendant all the ground covered by the state in the two solid weeks of cross questioning which ended yesterday. It will take until noon, he said.

The state meanwhile was piling up more ammunition to use on Hauptmann on re-cross examination when the direct is finished.

There were only two prospects to be on the stand most of the day. The court room was well filled for the session, but stringent enforcement of the no crowding rule kept down the number of spectators and prevented a repetition of Monday's jam.

Outside the courthouse many times the number of those in the four-story building shivering in the sub-zero weather hoping to be admitted some time today.

Defendant Arrives. Promptly at 9:45 Hauptmann arrived in court, accompanied by his three guards.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, the collar of his great coat turned up about his ears, came through the court room shortly before 10 o'clock and went to the judge's chambers.

Mrs. Hauptmann arrived at the defense table, and Hauptmann interrupted a conference with his lawyer to talk to her.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz and others of the prosecution staff, Prosecutor Anthony M. Hawk, Jr., Robert Peacock and Richard Condon came into court a moment before the trial was resumed. Wilentz and Reilly talked briefly.

Court convened at 10:01 (E. S. T.).

The three colonels, Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., Norman Schwarzkopf and Henry Breckinridge, marched single file to their accustomed seats back of the prosecution table.

Questioning Opened. The defendant gazed somberly at the jury while he waited for Reilly to begin questioning.

Q. You testified in the Bronx you went down to the Majestic apartments March 1, 1932, to look for work?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you go down a week or two before?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you go to an agency?

A. Yes. The Reliable. I got a letter from an agency about the 27th (February).

Q. Are you right handed or left handed?

A. Right handed.

Q. Now there was something said about that trunk you kept the money in. And you said the trunk was broken at one time?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. In March '33. I didn't have any money in it anymore.

Trunk Examination. Reilly was examining Hauptmann on the trunk which he said he kept in his home with large sums of money in it. He said he frequently took money from it, at a time when the state contends the unexplained sums came from ransom money.

Q. Was there at any time anything improper between you and Mrs. Henckel?

A. Nothing.

Reilly turned the questioning to Hauptmann's German-English dictionary. He asked the attorney for the letter Isador Fisch sent him after his return to Germany.

While the correspondence was being produced Reilly asked Hauptmann to enumerate the books he had read during his stay in the county jail.

The defendant spoke of a life of Lincoln, a North Pole expedition story, "Stories of Canada," and "Ancient History."

Questions returned to the Fisch letters and Hauptmann said there were six or eight and several post cards.

Q. The letters from Isador to you were then in your house?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know where they are now?

A. No.

Q. Do you remember the contents of those letters?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the contents of the first letter?

A. He didn't say anything particular. Only about his trip and he was well. Only little things.

Q. The second letter, was it a postcard in reply and subsequently received a postcard from Fisch?

A. Yes.

Postcard From Fisch. Wilentz produced a postcard, which Hauptmann identified as from Fisch. Reilly introduced it in evidence.

Hauptmann read in English the message in German on the card. Fisch spoke of getting a Christmas card from him, of conditions in Germany and of his plan to write Hauptmann a letter.

Q. Was it a card or a letter?

A. It was a letter.

Q. Do you remember what he said?

A. He wrote about his skins he had lying over here.

Here an objection interrupted the heavily accented words of the alien.

Wilentz objected to Hauptmann's recital of the contents of the letter as "mere hearsay."

Reilly told the justice he thought he could establish that the letter was received.

Wilentz argued that the testimony was not proper redirect evidence.

Confer With Judge. The justice asked the two attorneys to step to the bench and explain what was sought from the letters.

After the brief conference Reilly asked Hauptmann to confine answers on the letters to what Fisch said about the fur business.

The letter I got from Mr. Fisch was about the fur business. He only wrote me about the advance in price of 20 or 25 per cent," Hauptmann explained. Again he was pronouncing the word "furs" as if it were "fours."

Q. So there was a continuous correspondence between you about the furs?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there correspondence about the stocks?

A. Yes. In every letter he asked me about the stocks.

Reilly produced a booklet and asked Hauptmann to spell the word designated. The word was "boat" and Hauptmann spelled it correctly.

Q. Is it not a fact the German word is different from the English word?

A. The German is different.

Q. And this word you say you wrote it b-o-a-t?

A. Yes.

Same Notebook. Reilly was apparently referring to the same notebook entry which Hauptmann said under cross-examination was "B-o-a-t" spelled the same as the last ransom note spelled "boat."

Q. When was it the President said gold was no longer legal tender?

A. In March '33.

Q. That was when you turned in the $750?

A. Yes.

Q. Now you know that if they sent you any questionnaire on the gold you would be discovered to be an alien and be sent back to Germany?

A. I don't know that.

Q. During what time were you passing those bills?

A. From the time I found them until my arrest.

Q. For a period of over a month?

A. Yes.

Q. During all the time you didn't change your license plate; you didn't change your name; did you?

A. No.

Spent Ransom Bill Openly. Q. You took your wife to buy shoes with one of the bills openly?

A. Yes.

Q. When you were arrested you didn't try to conceal that you had gold certificate?

A. No.

Q. And when the man at the gas station asked you about the bills you made no effort to hide your license plate?

A. No effort at all to hide anything.

He was speaking of the passing of the bill which led to his arrest.

Q. Now I ask you again, did one dollar of the Lindbergh ransom money pass into your bank or brokerage accounts?

A. Not one dollar.

Reilly took a new tack.

Q. Did you know Harry Uhlig and Fisch had an apartment in some other part of New York?

A. I don't know.

Private Bank Account. Fisch lived in one small room, the witness previously testified.

Q. What was the private bank account?

A. The private bank account was the $3,500. To make it short

I put it "private bank account."

Q. In your private bank account, you mentioned your private records, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Hauptmann reiterated that the business relation with Fisch was "50-50." He explained that in some of the stock deals it was "20 per cent."

Q. When was it proposed?

A. Summer time 1933.

Q. Said he didn't want it any more?

A. That's what he said.

Reilly stalked over to the witness chair and picked up the plane which state experts have said planned the kidnap ladder.

Q. Now they have made an exhibit of a large plane. Is this your plane?

A. That's my plane.

Not Used Since 1928. Q. How long before your arrest did you use it?

A. The plane was never used since 1928.

Q. When was it sharpened?

A. Not since.

Q. Where was it in the garage?

A. It was in the rear wall of the garage.

Q. And you have not used it since 1928?

A. No.

This was the defense attack on the damaging testimony of Arthur J. Koehler, who said his experiments convinced him the Hauptmann plane had been used for the construction of the ladder.

Hauptmann leaned around in the chair and pointed to his tool kit, explaining he had used his "iron" planes since 1928.

He stepped down and crouching in front of the kit he reached for the planes.

More About Planes. He announced that a large iron plane was there. He placed the tool chest back against the wall with an easy muscular motion and remounted the witness stand.

Q. When did you last see the plane spoken of?

A. I can't remember when I saw it last.

Q. These wooden planes, they are not very expensive, are they?

A. I guess they are the cheapest you can buy.

Q. How much did you pay for it?

A. I don't remember. Two dollars.

Q. Are any of your chisels missing?

A. I have to look at the tool box.

Reilly was apparently getting ready to attack the state's evidence that the chisel found in the kidnap scene was exactly the same size as one missing from a set in the tool box.

A moment later Hauptmann stepped down again to reopen the chest and search for the chisel.

Reilly asked him to state whether the chisel was missing.

Chisels Missing. He took most of the tools out of the kit, laying them on the floor.

"There are three standard chisels missing," Hauptmann announced.

"Them chisels are no good. They lay about the garage."

He indicated the three state produced pieces of his set.

He added that he had a good "Stanley" set "quarter inch, half inch and three-quarter inch."

Hauptmann said the Stanley chisels were missing from the tool box.

Q. When did you see them last in that box?

A. I saw them a couple of days before I got arrested.

Reilly next brought the notebook with the ladder drawing to the stand. Hauptmann said it was not his.

Wilentz pointed out that the defendant had already marked the sketch with an "X" to indicate it was not his.

Wilentz inquired some questions about Hauptmann's purchase of vegetables at 89th street with a ransom bill, while Reilly was getting a payroll sheet.

Q. Do you remember the $10 ransom bills you passed at the store on 89th street?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you buy?

A. Vegetables.

Q. How much? Ten cents worth?

A. No, it was almost a dollar.

Far From Home. Q. You lived up on 22nd street and you went all the way down to 86th street to do your wife's marketing there?

A. No, no. That was right near my office, near Steiner Rouse, the brokerage office where I was every day.

Q. What time was it?

A. About the time I usually go out (from the brokerage office) for dinner around 12 o'clock or after three. It depends how the market is.

Hauptmann explained he put the purchases in his car and would take them home at three o'clock when the market closed.

He said he made most of the purchases for the home "after the baby was born."

Reilly completed his general direct questioning but was expected to ask a few queries when the attorney general finished.

Wilentz Questions. Wilentz walked over to the witness with the Majestic apartment payroll sheets. He had the witness scrutinize it.

Q. Now you see your name?

A. Yes.

Q. How many days work?

A. Eleven.

Q. What is the pay rate a month?

A. Richard Hauptmann $100.

Only the other day Hauptmann said he quit his job after the $50,000 ransom money was paid because he was getting only $80 a month instead of $100.

This was trying to destroy the state's evidence by having Hauptmann himself read the record showing $100 a month as his pay rate.

Wilentz held up the Majestic apartment payroll before Hauptmann and led him through the details of his employment.

Q. Now is there anything on here that shows you worked the 2nd of April?

A. It shows two days. That's how I know I worked the 2nd.

Q. That's your testimony but does the record show it?

A. I am not familiar with this record how they keep it.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1932, Edna A. Guest.)

STICKY KISSES.
Should Cleopatra smile on me
And turn her lips to mine,
If cookie crumbs I chanced to see Where only rouge should shine,
And round her mouth were strawberry jam,
Though some might think it bliss
So very finicky I am,
I would not take a kiss.

Should lovely Helen hold her arms
Entirely to me,
Though men have fought to win
her charms,
Untempted I should be
If in her pudgy hand she held
A wedge of chocolate cake,
I'm certain I should feel compelled
To scorn one kiss to take.

And yet whenever the baby comes
With jelly on his face,
And mouth besmeared with cookie crumbs,
It's quite a different case.
I let those sticky finger tips
Upon my collar fall,
And kiss the sugar-coated lips
And mind them not at all.

SOLVENT CITIES

American cities have been in a bad way the last two or three years. Scores, perhaps hundreds, of them have had to fall back on government loans to keep going. But now they're coming back.

Proof is found in the status of the bonds they gave the government as security. The PWA lately has been selling such bonds at auction to the highest bidders, and when last reported had made about $1,000-000 profit on them. The buyers are obviously confident of collecting the interest and principal. Among those buyers are said to be various investment firms which wouldn't have touched them a year ago.

The way cities are climbing out of their depression is one of the heroic sagas of this epoch.

"DARN FOOL" PARENTS.

"I am worried about our young folk," Dr. Thurman
B. Rice, public health expert of the Indiana University Medical School, told an audience recently. "I am worried about our young folk, because they have such 'darn fool' parents."

Probably the good and bad qualities of parents—and of children, too—vary little from age to age, but modern conditions of living tend to make even the best intentions of good parents influence the lives of their children unfortunately. In their desire to make the lives of the children happy, parents frequently deprive their children of the benefits of discipline.

This is the point of Dr.
Rice's criticism. Let the boys and girls learn to entertain themselves rather than to depend on being furnished ample sums of money for artificial entertainment. Encourage them to engage in simple, natural exercises rather than to buy their pleasures.

Dr. Rice offers a simple suggestion. At least parents themselves can set a good example by sensible, simple living. They can stay at home nights enough to get some acquaintance with their children, and they can cut the freely donated "spending money" to safe and sane proportions.

BEAUTIFUL ROADSIDES.

A movement which deserves general support is that of roadside beautification. Garden clubs in many communities are working hard at the project, and persuading other organizations to co-operate.

Roadside market owners is one group which has become interested. Proprietors of roadside stands realize that it is important to display their goods attractively. Neat buildings and surroundings are more effective than an over-display of advertising.

Thus the movement grows. It now includes the fight against unsightly and view-obstructing billboards, the constructive work of tree-planting the sprucing up of refreshment stands and farmers' sales stands, the improvement of public squares and village greens in many small towns with flower beds and shrubbery.
It is to be "America, the beautiful" even along roadsides hitherto left to exploitation and ugliness.

fore he was as smart as Einstein?

EASY MONEY FOR

UNCLE SAM

The gist of Postmaster General Farley's explanation to the Norfolk philatelists who took him to task for supplying "a friend of a friend" with an unperforated sheet from a recent commemorative issue of postage stamps seems to be that he did not know any better.

He did not know—and neither did we until we looked it up—that an un-perforated sheet of stamps has a value to collectors far in excess of that of the biggest and best-mutilated perforated sheet. He had a right to be chagrined on learning from his Norfolk critics that the sheet in question now has a market value of $30,000, whereas the face value, which he paid, was only $6.

However, we live and learn, and a smart postmaster-general like Mr.
Farley ought to see at a glance the bearing of this lesson in philately on the problem of the federal deficit. Let him print now a limited edition of unperforated sheets of each of his many commemorative issues and sell them at auction to the highest bidders.

CROP VOCATIONAL

TEACHERS TO VISIT

GREENVILLE STATION

Results of recent experiments dealing with cotton root-rot, various test on cotton and fertilizer were given Navarro county teachers of vocational agriculture at the United States Department of Agriculture Experiment Station at Greenville Saturday, January 26th.

The station workers have been working on control measures for root-rot for the past ten years following rotation of fertilizers and following to counteract the disease.
The best results obtained were from the use of ammoniacal barriers. This method prevented the spread of the organism which causes this disease. Deep tillage has been another means of control, but due to the expense will not prove practical on the average farm.

The cream improvement program was discussed by J. M.
Armstrong of the state department of agriculture. He outlined the program of cream improvement which would deal with sanitation and cleanliness in producing cream on the farm, according to Mr. Armstrong a 2-cent premium per pound would be paid for quality cream.

ORCHARD PRUNING

SHOULD BE DONE AT

EARLY DATE NOW

Pruning should be done during January and February for the best results. This is the conclusion reached by a group of Mildred farmers at a meeting at the Mildred High school January 23d.

The group listed the following points concerning the pruning of fruit trees.

All water sprouts, cross limbs, decayed and diseased limbs should be removed. Limbs pointing downward, and limbs too near the ground should be removed. The center of the peach tree should be opened to allow air and sunlight to enter. Pear and apple trees require little pruning but one third of each year's growth should be removed to prevent the tree from becoming too high.

ture teacher and the discussion.
Another meeting is scheduled for Friday week dealing with feeding and care of poultry.

ber, 1933, he was about even.
Q. How much did you put in?
A. Very little. There was 50 shares.

Q. How much cash?
A. $2,000 or $1,500.
Q. You took some part of the ransom money for your living expenses?

A. I never had any ransom money.
Q. How about the bills you were spending in August and September, 1934?

A. I didn't know it was ransom money.
Q. But you did spend it, did you?

A. Yes, I know now.
Q. Then you did take some money out of your accounts for your living before November, 1933?

Well—
Q. Will you stand on your books?
A. Yes.

Q. Will you stand on the fur-accounts?
A. No.

Q. Will you stand on the statement $2,000 was all you got from Fisch?
A. No.

Q. So you won't stand on your books?
A. To a certain extent.

Q. Will you find me any item in that book of yours which shows
Fisch put in $15,000?
Account Not Marked Special.

A. Its not special marked.
Q. Will you show me one line in that book which shows Fisch put in any more than that $2,000 he did put in?

A. Fisch, he kept some books.
Q. So you've got this book showing the stock accounts?
A. This is only the $2,000.

Q. Does it include the Fisch account?
It includes the Fisch account, but not in my name.

Q. But you haven't an account of a single other dollar from Fisch?
A. No.

Q. Is your book, I didn't write it?
A. I wrote it.

Q. When did you do most of your fur business?
A. Not familiar with furs.
Q. Not familiar?
A. No. Fisch he took care of these.

Q. Fish put in most of the money you put in $1,500 or $2,000?
A. Yes.

Bought Wall Street Forecast.
Wilentz brought out that Hauptmann spent money on financial papers and once spent $30 for a Wall Street forecast.

Wilentz turned to the fur account section of the book.
Q. Show me where there is some evidence where you got profit money out of furs?

man wrote to the Fisch family.

He objected to the underscored words particularly.
Wilentz, replying, said "we hope by these letters to attack the credibility of the witness," and explained they would be used to reply to the defense explanation of Fisch's financial dealings with Hauptmann.

Fisch objected the copy was not the original.
"This is in his own writing," Wilentz argued. "They are both his writings and this is not secondary evidence."

"I think I'll admit the letter," Trenchard said and the defense took an exception.
"Is this letter in German?" asked Justice Trenchard.

Wilentz agreed, explaining that a translation would be offered.
Interpreter on Stand.
Hauptmann was excused from the stand temporarily while the interpreter was called to give a translation. He was Dr. George Priest.

The professor studied the German letter and a translation to determine whether it was accurate.

The professor started to read the letter. It began, "Dear Mr.
Fisch," and told how shocked Hauptmann felt at "the death of your dear brother and my best friend."

"I made the acquaintance of Isidor in 1932," the translator read.
The letter told of pleasant hours spent with friends in the Bronx and at Hunter's Island. Business matters were discussed between the two men.

In my business there are great fluctuations. Sometimes I can lose almost everything. However, if I speculate successfully, I stand to win a substantial fortune."

The letter told of early business associations, and continued:
"We decided on November, 1933, to go into business with $35,000, each a half."

The value of stocks held by Hauptmann in November, 1933, the letter said, was $12,000. Then the massive recited the value of furs of various kinds owned by Fisch at $21,000.

Hauptmann wrote he paid Fisch $5,500 and still owned some of his half of the fur ownership.
The letter recounted that Fisch owed a Mrs. Kille $3,750, which debt Hauptmann confirmed.

Fisch had an interest in a bakery, the letter continued, but the defendant learned it had been in bankruptcy for two years. Fisch, it said, told Hauptmann it was in good order and his interest was $10,000.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN CARE OF ORCHARDS BY COUNTY AGENTS

FARM AND HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENTS INSIST ORCHARDS ARE VITAL

Orchard demonstrations in various sections of the county have been held recently by C. Morris and Miss Ruth McNabb, county farm and home demonstration agents co-operatively, in an effort to advance the program of home orchard for every family in the county.

Both of the agents insist that these orchards are a portion of a balanced farm program, especially with members of the home demonstration clubs working on their pantry projects to insure an adequate food supply for the family. Extension service specialists estimate that 1,250 pounds of fruit are required annually for a family of five.

Several general observations were made concerning orchards by Mr. Morris. He asserted that the location of the orchard should preferably be on a north or east slope of a well-drained plot, and if the ground possessed more than a fall of five inches in 100 feet it should be terraced before setting out the trees. Trees do not thrive on poorly drained or impoverished land. Care should be exercised in selection of tree, with one-year-old trees preferred.

Should Be Set at Angle. In setting out fruit trees, the county agent said that care should be used to set them at an angle of 45 degrees or more, leaning in all cases to the southwest, in order to enable growing trees to withstand prevailing spring winds. When three or four years old they will be erect and strong enough to withstand the wind. Peaches, plums and apricots, etc., should be pruned to a height of 18 inches at planting; while apples and pears should be cut back to 24 inches height.

Each orchard should be pruned each winter during the dormant season with January and February as the most favorable months for this work. The pruning serves to make the trees more vigorous and also thins out the fruit to increase good yields of higher quality. The pruning should be followed by spraying to destroy diseases, insects, and parasites.

San Jose Scale. Much San Jose scale is reported in Navarro county by Mr. Morris, and it is termed the most dangerous of parasitic diseases because it spreads rapidly. Lime sulphur solution spray is prescribed as proper treatment.

Mr. Morris reported that a resident of the independent home held here recently that he had proved to his own satisfaction that spraying was essential and profitable. The county agent reported that the cost of spraying was negligible, for complete pruning and spraying equipment could be secured for $25 and would last for 25 years if properly cared for, and materials for spray solutions could also be secured at reasonable costs.

Rebel Leader and Followers Slain

MEXICO, D. F., Jan. 31.—(AP)—An unidentified rebel leader and several followers were slain in a battle with federal troops in the state of Tlaxcala, a war department announcement said.

First reports that the leader was Abel Guerrero, a widely known woman revolutionist, were later termed erroneous.

Dr. Sneed Recovering. WORTHAM, Jan. 31.—(Sp.)—Dr. E. W. Sneed, who spent the past week in the Navarro Clinic recovering from a severe illness, has returned home, and doing nicely. He is again able to be up and enjoy visits from his friends.

Open Dates For Cannery Unit Of Relief Board

Canning dates are open at the cannery unit of the Navarro county relief board from January 31 to February 7, according to Mrs. J. O. Walker, supervisor of the unit, and relief officials are anxious to secure bookings to keep the plant in operation.

Because of the scarcity of vegetables to be canned following the recent hard freeze, and the slowing down of meat canning orders, Mrs. Walker said that it had been necessary to cut the operations back to a single shift of eight hours per day basis. The plant has been operating on a two-shift schedule up to this time.

Mrs. Walker said that the two shifts would be restored if sufficient orders were received to keep the plant operating at that capacity.

WORK CREWS OF 100 MEN CLEARING SITE KERENS WATERWORKS

A work order was received recently on the Kerens PWA project for the construction of a municipal water reservoir, and crews of a hundred men per day are engaged in an effort to clear the 55-acre lake site within nine days. O. L. Hazelwood, project engineer for the Navarro county relief board, reported late Wednesday.

Engineers were on the ground near Kerens Wednesday surveying the site and driving stakes for the dam site. Work on the project will be rushed as much as possible.

The crews clearing the site must cut all timber less than twelve inches in diameter down flush with the ground and timbers twelve inches or more in diameter must be cut off within a foot of the ground.

FUNERAL SERVICES THURSDAY MORNING FOR MRS. LENNON

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances P. Lennon aged 77 years who died at the home of her son, C. L. Lennon, 2000 West Fourteenth avenue, Wednesday morning at 5:30 o'clock, following a fall two weeks ago when she sustained a broken hip, will be held from the Church of the Immaculate Conception Thursday morning at 9 o'clock with interment in the Rice cemetery. Monsignor V. Graffeo of the local parish conducted the rites.

Mrs. Lennon had resided in Navarro county 23 years and in Corsicana two years. Surviving are five sons, C. L. Lennon, Corsicana; R. E. Lennon, Corsicana; J. E. Lennon, Corsicana; T. E. Lennon, Alma; and daughter Mrs. Maggie Fowler, Ballinger and a number of grandchildren.

The funeral was directed by the Corley Funeral Home.

RICHARD W. CHILD, WRITER AND FORMER AMBASSADOR, DIES

PNEUMONIA PROVES FATAL TO LAWYER, DIPLOMAT AND AUTHOR TODAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Richard Washburn Child, attorney, writer and former ambassador to Italy, died at his home, early today from pneumonia. Child, who was 54, caught cold several days ago and the cold developed into pneumonia. He was named ambassador to Italy by President Harding.

The funeral, it was learned, will be held Saturday. Interment will be at Newport, R. I.

Richard Washburn Child was an author as well as a diplomat. His collaboration with Premier Benito Mussolini in 1927 on the Italian leader's autobiography served to bring him to the attention of another set of literati, those on the continent.

He went from the post of editor of Collier's weekly, which he held in 1919, to that of ambassador of Italy where he served from May, 1921, to February, 1924. In 1922 he was the chief representative of the United States at the Genoa and Lausanne conferences.

Bolted Republicans. An ambassador serving under republican presidents, he bolted the party in 1932 to lead a league of Roosevelt republicans which worked for the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt as president.

Italy decorated him with the order of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus and with the order of the crown of Italy.

He summarized his European diplomatic experiences in 1925 in a book "A Diplomat Looks at Europe."

Born in Worcester, Mass., Aug. 5, 1881, Child attended Harvard university which in 1924 added to his academic degrees the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

He was admitted to the bar in 1906, coming first to national notice during the world war when he worked as a volunteer assistant to Frank A. Vanderbilt in war finance work in the U. S. treasury.

Published Volumes. Five of his volumes were published before then, the first, "Jim Hands," in 1910. The others were "The Man in the Shadow," "The Blue Wall," "Potential Russia" and "Bodbank."

Among his later works were "Battling the Criminal" and "Writing on the Wall" in 1928, and the novel "Romance" in 1930. Child also contributed to numerous magazines fiction and articles on public questions.

He married his first wife, Maude Parker, in August, 1916. To them were born two children, Anne and Constance. He married Eve Sanderson in September, 1927, and Dorothy G. Everson in September, 1931. Mrs. Everson had been his secretary.

Child maintained his home at Newport, R. I., where he founded a summer economic conference.

MILES WILL TAKE UP DUTIES IN EAST TEXAS AREA FRIDAY

KILGORE, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Enforcement of state railroad commission regulation in the prolific East Texas oil field tomorrow will shift to Harry E. Miles, appointed chief of the division to succeed Capt. E. N. Stanley, resigned.

Col. Ernest O. Thompson, commission chairman, who announced the body voted unanimously to elevate Miles from his post as assistant to Stanley to chief of the division, expressed confidence Miles would hold the field "in strict compliance with the law and our orders issued pursuant to the law."

Thompson said Stanley's resignation came because "the state is not able to keep such men as Capt. Stanley because the salaries are not sufficient."

He lauded Stanley's work and termed him a "great executive under the most trying circumstances imaginable."

This New "Rub" is Safe for Baby

(A WELCOME DISCOVERY)

A new and powerful "rub" that begins its work in ten seconds! Its vapor is volatile, and spreads rapidly through the cold area, even down into the bronchial tubes.

Yet so perfectly harmless you may use it on the baby.

This new penetrant will often relieve head colds in a few moments. A chest cold overnight. Or ease an irritated throat like no spray or gargle you ever tried. Pine Balm gives you an entirely new weapon for fighting colds. It is not a mere surface rub that brings a temporary sensation of warmth. It is not another ointment whose vapors merely clear the head. This volatile rub reaches the air passages; penetrates to the spots where colds settle.

TO PARENTS:
Give your children the advantage of this new and more effective way of treating colds.

Pine Balm is a real discovery and is regarded a distinct step forward in the treatment of colds. Reports of its efficacy in many cases are most gratifying. It is getting amazing results for adults, with colds of various types. It is especially useful in treating the child whose stomach is easily affected by internal medicine. Because children are so frequently upset by dosing, none should be without this new and more effective cold relief.

Local druggists have been supplied. Get the name right, and get the right preparation: ask for Dr. Caldwell Pine Balm.

Pine Balm is a real discovery.

Admits Bootlegging
The witness I was made to admit on cross-examination that he bootlegged rum before repeal, and Carlstrom was forced to resort to a constitutional right when Attorney General David A. Wilentz asked him about his activity in bootlegging. He said he visited the bakery in the Bronx where he said he saw Hauptmann. Carlstrom said the answer would incriminate him, but later explained he was "in the company of women."

Both witnesses were closely cross-examined on details and places as the state sought to show they had poor memories.

Kiss completed his testimony as luncheon recess was declared. Kiss said he read of Hauptmann's story of taking Frederick's dog out on the night of the crime, and then he remembered that he had seen Hauptmann in the Bronx bakery for a cup of coffee on the night. He called Defense Attorney Edward J. Reilly's office last Sunday to tell about it, he said.

Effort to Discredit
Before he took the stand Attorney General Wilentz continued an effort begun yesterday to discredit the alibi testimony of Carlstrom and caused that witness to resort to his constitutional right not to answer a question which he said would incriminate him. The question, concerning his activity in bootlegging after he left the Bronx bakery the night of March 1, 1932, was answered, however, on redirect examination when Carlstrom explained he was "in the company of women."

Wilentz indicated in other questions that he intended to call Arthur Larsen for rebuttal to testify that Carlstrom spent the night of March 1, 1932, in a house at Dunellen, N. J., and could not have been in the Bronx.

Kiss said that when he read Hauptmann's testimony in the newspapers, the dog, the Bronx and the bakery, and the radio reports of the Lindbergh kidnapping broadcast at the time, all became connected in his memory.

Cut Off By Objection
"I jumped up and I says to my wife," he began, only to be cut off by state objection.

"He said he was in the bakery and a man came in with a dog. That man?" Reilly asked.

"That man?" Reilly asked. "That man?" he said, "came from the back and that man about two or three feet in front of me met that day and that man saying to him in German, 'somebody want to take away the dog,' that is the way I remember the whole thing, because he saying that in German. Then I looked up at the man and I drink my coffee and I said, 'I forgot the whole thing.'"

"What did the man say to the lady in German?"

"Je man hat voll das dog—das hund vennehmen."

"He translated it to 'somebody wanted to take the dog away.'"

"Now, did you see the man in the courtroom?" Reilly continued.

"Yes, sir."

"That you saw come in with the dog and speak those words in German?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where is he?"

Points Out Hauptmann.
Kiss stood up. He stretched a long arm toward Hauptmann.

"Right there."

"Hauptmann stood up."

"Is that the defendant you are speaking of?"

"Yes," he confirmed.

Before Carlstrom's cross-examination was resumed today, defense attorneys called the prosecutors before the judge's bench for a long whispered conference. It was learned later the defense was complaining of published statements purporting to have come from the prosecutors to the effect that defense witnesses would be investigated for possible perjury.

When Wilentz sought to ask Carlstrom about the Brooklyn matter, Reilly broke the silence that followed with a suggestion that the answer might be incriminating.

Thursday's Story Of Hauptmann Trial

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY
Associated Press Staff Writer
FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 31.—(P)—The placid young Swedish carpenter, Elvert Carlstrom, faced further cross-examination today on his story he saw Bruno Hauptmann in a Bronx bakery lunchroom the night of the Lindbergh kidnapping.

For the past twenty hours detectives throughout the metropolitan New York-New Jersey area have been checking every detail of his testimony and the state was expected to use all the information developed in these investigations in an attempt to discredit the witness and his story.

The courtroom crowd was noticeably smaller and less eager today than that Hauptmann and his wife have testified.

The principals in the murder trial drama were slow in taking their accustomed places. Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard was the first to arrive. A minute later Hauptmann, pale but smiling slightly, walked with his guards. Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly, Attorney General David A. Wilentz, and their legal associates came in later, one by one.

Three Colonels Arrive.
Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by Colonel H. Norcross, and Colonel Henry Breckinridge, took his accustomed place back of the prosecution table as court was about to convene.

Court got under way at 10:03 (E.S.T.). Justice Trenchard directed Carlstrom to resume the witness stand and a whispered conference of defense and state attorneys followed.

The whispered conference was carried over to the judge's bench and Trenchard was consulted at length. It could not be learned immediately what was the subject of the lengthy conference.

The conference at the bench began to break up when Wilentz left the front of the bench first and the defense attorneys came next one by one. Frederick A. Pope remained and called Wilentz back.

Wilentz declined to discuss the conference, as it was late ended. He said the justice.

The cross-examination of Carlstrom finally got under way at 10:25.

Saw Him Only Once.
Q. Now you testified yesterday you saw the defendant only once and that was on the night of March 1, 1932, in the bakery?

A. Yes.

Q. And you testified you were up in the Bronx that night to see a young lady who lived near the bakery, a young lady of whom you were very fond?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see her?

A. I didn't.

Q. Oh, you didn't?

A. I was too late.

Q. But you said that was why you went up there that night?

A. Yes.

The witness told Wilentz he fixed the time that he went to the Bronx bakery by the subway clock.

After visiting the bakery Carlstrom said he went to Brooklyn, about 1 a. m.

Q. What did you do there?

Refuses Answer.
Carlstrom did not answer for a long time, and Wilentz asked if he understood the question.

Reilly interposed, suggesting that the witness might feel that it might incriminate him.

"Will your answer incriminate you?" Wilentz asked.

"Yes," said Carlstrom and an answer was not required.

Q. Tell me what time you left Brooklyn?

A. About 5 in the morning.

Alibi Witnesses
Admitted Criminal Record on Stand

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 31.—(P)—Vigorous efforts were made by the state today to smash the credibility of witnesses testifying in defense of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, on trial for the kidnapping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh.

One alibi witness admitted he was a bootlegger, another admitted he ran a speakeasy, but denied he conducted another place where negroes and white persons consorted. Another resorted to a constitutional right to avoid details about his activities "in company of women."

A witness who said on Hauptmann's behalf that two men, neither of them Hauptmann, asked him the way to the Lindbergh estate on the day of the crime, he seeing a ladder in their car, admitted he served one sentence in a reformatory and two in a workhouse.

Carlstrom asserted he "would believe my own testimony" rather than Christiansen's records.

Wilentz brought out front pages of a New York newspaper, bearing photographs of Hauptmann, taken at the time of the arrest.

Carlstrom said he did not recognize the pictures. If he did, he said, he did not recognize them as the man he saw in the bakery the night of March 1, 1932.

At one pause in the questioning Carlstrom glared at Arthur Larsen, the man who allegedly told him that he and Carlstrom slept in the same house in Dunellen on the night of the kidnapping.

It was the first time his placid expression had changed.

Ended Cross Examination.
Wilentz ended his examination of Carlstrom and Reilly asked him about his duties at the Dunellen house.

The witness said it was his duty to live there and care for the fire.

Larsen, he said, came to paint the inside of the house. The painter came to the house some time after he arrived and remained about a month. Larsen, he said, lived in the house.

When he ordered a meal in broken English at the bakery Hauptmann laughed at him. He said he "got a good look at him" then.

The witness told Reilly he was "in the company of women" between 1 a. m. and 5 a. m. after he left the bakery.

Add No. 1—Thursday's Story p. 7.

Wilentz brought from the witness stand a house unguarded that night.

"Playing hooky on your birthday," Reilly asked. "The witness nodded."

"You didn't play hooky on any other birthday last year, did you?" Wilentz asked.

Carlstrom Excused.
The by-play between counsel ceased and Carlstrom was excused.

Louis Kiss, a bald, cadaverous looking man, was the next defense witness called.

Q. Where do you live?

A. New York City.

Q. What's your occupation?

A. Silk painter.

Q. How long have you been in the United States?

A. In 1922.

Q. Where do you come from originally?

A. Hungary.

The witness spoke with an accent made him difficult to understand.

Direct examination concluded and a 15-minute recess was taken at 1:15 p. m.

At the conference before trial started, the defense counsel complained of quotations in morning newspapers from prosecution counsel that statements of defense witnesses would be investigated for possible perjury.

Justice Trenchard advised them to submit affidavits of any irregularities if they chose. No immediate action was taken.

Cross-Examination.
Court resumed at 11:28 and the state took Kiss for cross-examination.

Attorney General Wilentz conducted the questioning.

Q. When you saw the dog you recognized the man?

A. I looked up and recognized the man.

Q. Because of the dog?

A. Yes, and because he spoke in German.

Q. When you saw the pictures in 1934 you didn't recall that was the man?

No. It didn't come to me.

Kiss recounted for Wilentz his career in the United States after arriving in 1922. He said he worked as a bus boy while living in Yorkville in 1924. He was a chauffeur at Cedarhurst seven months and went back to New York in 1925.

As Kiss continued his recital through the succeeding years, Captain John J. Lamb, of the New Jersey state police, recorded every address given, for checking the witness' story.

Very Explicit.
Wilentz then had the witness relate in detail the various employments he held since he has been in this country. Kiss recited off street addresses, the names of numerous employers, the exact duration of each job, whether it was a few days or few months, and other data.

Only once did he falter when he was telling of a Batik studio he had "at 63rd street and Eighth avenue."

Wilentz asked if Kiss were sure there was such a corner in New York as 63rd and Eighth avenue. The witness said he wasn't sure whether it was Eighth or Ninth avenue, but he was sure he had received mail at the studio for a year.

This questioning interlude over, the silk painter went confidently on with his recital.

Took Son to Hospital.
Wilentz called the witness' attention to direct testimony that exactly one week before he Lindbergh kidnapping he had taken his sick seven-year-old son to the hospital.

Q. The one of that?

A. Positive.

Q. You couldn't be mistaken?

No.

Q. You'll stand on that statement?

A. Positive.

Wilentz asked him details on the hospitalization of his boy on February 22, 1932, the name of the doctor and the departure from his home.

Wilentz read Kiss his previous testimony that he took his boy to the hospital "exactly one week" before the kidnapping.

"One week exactly is the 29th of February," Wilentz said to the witness.

Made Rum.
Fisher interrupted to point out that 1 a. m. in the morning, when the boy was taken to the hospital, would be the 23rd of February.

Wilentz suggested that Kiss' testimony be accepted as he gave it.

WHO MUST FILE RETURNS
Returns are required of every single person who for the year 1934 had a gross income of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 or more and of every husband and wife living together who for the year 1934 had an aggregate gross income of $5,000 or more or an aggregate net income of $2,500 or more. Widowers, widows, divorcees, and married persons separated by mutual consent are treated as single persons. The personal exemptions are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families.

Husband and wife living together may make separate returns if the income of each, their income may be included in court room?

Q. Yes. That man there (pointing to Hauptmann).

INCOME TAX IN A NUTSHELL

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period begins January 1 and ends March 15, 1935.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? See instructions on forms 1030A and 1040.

WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the amount of net income in excess of the $1,000 exemption, credit for dependents earned income credit, dividends of domestic corporations subject to taxation, and interest on obligations of the United States and obligations of instrumentalities of the United States. Surplus on surplus net income in excess of $4,000.

INCOME-TAX DON'TS
DON'T prepare your return without first studying the instructions on the form.

DON'T destroy the memoranda from which your return was prepared.

DON'T omit explanation when such information is essential to an intelligent audit. Attach memoranda to your return.

YOUR INCOME TAX Forms For Making Returns.
Forms for filing returns of income for 1934 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of the obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time on or before March 15 if the return is made on the calendar year basis, as it the case with most individuals.

Forms may be obtained upon request by written or personal communication with the collector of internal revenue and deputy collectors. Persons whose net income for 1934 was derived chiefly from salary or wages and was not in excess of $5,000, may make their returns on form 1040A, a single sheet. Persons whose net income was in excess of $5,000, or, regardless of amount, was derived from a business, profession, or sale of property, are required to use the larger form 1040. Failure to use the proper form presents difficulties to both the taxpayer and the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Therefore, it is emphasized that a taxpayer engaged in a business or profession from which he derived a net income of less than $5,000 is required to use the larger form.

The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his principal residence or principal place of business on or before midnight of March 15, 1935. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

Q. As a matter of fact you did subsequently recover your lost dog?

Yes, on March 4.

Q. How do you fix that night as March 1, 1932?

Day Lindbergh Baby Kidnaped.
A. That was the day everybody knows the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped. I came home from the gas station at 9 o'clock, had my dinner and went out on the street and a lot of people are saying the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped.

Q. What time would you say?

A. About 10 or 11 o'clock.

Van Henke explained at Reilly's instance that the witness, James M. Fawcett, Hauptmann's first counsel, about the incident, which he said occurred about 8 p. m.

Wilentz began the cross-examination.

Q. Who is August Wunstorf?

A. That's me.

Q. Why did you use that name?

A. On account of family trouble.

Q. When did you use it?

A. When I was in saloon business.

Q. When was that?

A. Before prohibition. Then I made it a restaurant.

Fifteen Sextettes
Entered Mildred's Invitation Tourney

MILDRED, Jan. 1.—(Spl.)—The second annual girls invitation basketball tournament, sponsored by the Mildred schools on the Mildred gym court will get under way Saturday and will be completed Monday. There are fifteen teams entered.

Navarro sextette is the defending champion and Dawson won second honors last winter.

Preliminaries and quarterfinals will be staged Saturday and semifinals, finals and consolations will be played Monday.

The teams entered in the tournament are Mildred, Powell, Pursley, Emhouse, Byrd, Currie, Wortham, Rural Shade, Phillip's Chapel, Navarro, Dawson, Rice, Roane, India, I. O. O. F. Home (Corsicana).

a single joint return. If separate returns are filed, one may not report income which belongs to the other, but must report only the income which actually belongs to him. If a joint return is filed, such return is treated as a taxable unit, and the income disclosed is subject to both the normal tax and the surtax.

Husband and wife may elect each year whether to file a joint return or separate returns. Where, however, joint or separate returns have been filed for a particular year, neither husband nor wife may after the due date of the return file an amended return or returns on a different basis for that year.

PERSONAL EXEMPTIONS
In addition to the personal exemption of $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together and for heads of families, a taxpayer is entitled to a credit of $400 for each dependent, defined by income tax law and regulations as a person under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. The term "mentally or physically defective" means not only cripples and those mentally defective but persons in ill health and the aged.

In order to be entitled to the $400 credit, the taxpayer must furnish the dependent his or her chief support. The credit is based upon actual financial dependency and not upon legal dependency. For example, a father whose children receive half for most of their support from a trust fund or other separate source is not entitled to the credit.

Neither relationship nor residence is a factor in the allowance of the $400 credit for a dependent. The taxpayer and the dependent may be residents of different cities. If husband and wife both contribute to the support of a dependent, the $400 credit may be taken by the one contributing the chief support, and may not be divided between them.

A single person who supports in his home an aged mother is entitled not only to the $400 credit for a dependent, but also to the personal exemption of $2,500 as the head of a family, plus the $400 credit for a dependent.

Under the revenue act of 1934 both the personal exemption and the credit for dependents are required to be prorated where the status of the taxpayer changed during the year.

Judge Will Tell
Waco Girl Names
Of Her Parents

WACO, Texas, Jan. 30.—(P)—Judge Sam R. Scott was ready today to tell Miss Mabel Vivian Scott who her parents are, but he said he would not divulge their identity generally.

He said he also would deny the girl the $10,000 damages she asked of a Waco physician who attended her birth and the former operator of a rescue home from which she was adopted. She had sought the damages for their refusal to name her parents.

Miss Scott said she learned two years ago she was an adopted daughter in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Scott.

The physician revealed the names of the parents to Judge Scott (not related to the plaintiff) in private. After having pleaded professional privilege against revealing them in public testimony, he said his patient and her family had requested that he not discuss the case.

COUNTY JUDGES AND COMMISSIONERS ASK ENACTMENTS LAWS

STATE ASSOCIATION OUTLINE LEGISLATION OF BENEFIT TO PUBLIC

The County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas, is seeking several different law enactments in the Texas Legislature every year. The law assuming bonds used for state highways by the state will be re-enacted, appropriation of funds for relief, etc. according to a letter received by E. McGowan, secretary, from B. L. Pitts, Lubbock, president of the organization.

Plans for the seeking of legislation calculated by the association for the benefit of counties and officials were made at a meeting held in Austin, Jan. 16.

Following are the proposals favored by the association:

1. Re-enacting the road bond assumption law for county and road district indebtedness for the next two years.
2. The appropriation of funds from some source to continue state and federal relief programs.
3. Enactment of a general law covering payment of commissioners salaries, giving liberal construction of their duties and responsibilities, and will give modest raise in salary to every commissioner if passed.
4. Urge no further burdens on the county general funds.

By making reduction in auto registration fees which are used to maintain lateral roads. To reduce these fees would mean suicide to most counties since it would be necessary to levy an ad valorem tax to maintain lateral roads.

There is considerable agitation and work being put forth in an effort to get the state to take over all the bonds used for the improvement and construction of state highways which will remove quite a burden from the counties and road districts.

Oppose Fee Reduction. A determination among the smaller counties, is scheduled to be made against any reduction in the automobile registration fees. Under the present arrangement, the county road and bridge funds receive $50,000 collected in automobile registration fees and are used exclusively on lateral roads. The funds over the $50,000 are divided with the state highway department.

Many of the smaller counties' auto registrations do not exceed $50,000 per year and should the registration fees be reduced, the road and bridge funds will suffer and it is pointed out that it might be necessary to add county road taxes to maintain the lateral roads. The state maintains all State and federal highways.

Edward F. Hearn Presented by Study Club in Wortham

WORTHAM, Jan. 31.—(Spl.)—An unusually interesting meeting of the Wortham Study Club was enjoyed Wednesday afternoon in the Munroe hall with Mesdames John Munroe and Gail Zoda hostesses.

The high light of the program featured in the presentation of the club's guest artist, Edward French Hearn, of Corsicana, while Mr. Hearn is no longer a resident of Corsicana, having moved to a Wortham residence, having been presented in delightful programs before in Mrs. Munroe's studio, yet on this occasion many heard the gifted pianist for the first time.

As on all previous programs, Mr. Hearn completely captivated his listeners. His pleasing personality and artistic playing held his hearers spellbound, and he had many recalls. A group of his own compositions were performed, best received and had more encores, yet the Schumann and Chopin numbers included on his program were beautifully given and well received.

Miss Mary Ward of Corsicana accompanied Mr. Hearn to Wortham, and other out-of-town guests were from Mexia, being Mesdames J. G. Coman, Freeman, Uguirhart, and Pete Urschel.

The hostesses served delicious refreshment plates at conclusion of the program.

Courthouse News

District Court
The jury for the week was excused Wednesday morning until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock when attorneys in a pending civil matter decided to present the case before Judge J. S. Callicutt.

An affidavit for contempt of court proceedings was filed Wednesday morning against Jim Garrison for alleged violation of an injunction granted in the case of Mandie Harrison vs. Jim Garrison, divorce and injunction, restraining and enjoining the defendant from disposing of personal property. Judge Callicutt set the hearing down for Saturday, Feb. 9.

Garrison is at liberty on bond in the sum of $5,000 following a habeas corpus hearing last week in a murder indictment in connection with the fatal shooting of Aude Washburn, near Wildcat Ferry, Dec. 24, 1934. The case is set for trial in the district court, Wednesday, Feb. 13.

A special venire for service in the Garrison case and another special venire in the case of the State of Texas vs. Selma Burnett, murder, will be drawn by District Judge Callicutt, Thursday, it was stated Wednesday.

A special meeting of the commissioners court was held Tuesday afternoon and minor tax adjustments were dealt with.

Assessor and Collector of Taxes Office
There had been 3,573 poll taxes issued in the assessor's and collector's office Wednesday morning, an increase of approximately 1,000 polls since Monday. The announcement in excess of 5,000 polls paid Monday was in error, it was stated Wednesday.

The final date for the payment of poll taxes and also 1934 taxes on property expires Thursday night at midnight. The 1934 taxes will become delinquent unless paid by Feb. 1. No poll taxes will be issued after midnight Thursday.

Registration of automobiles will begin Friday, Feb. 1. Delinquent taxes can be paid at any time between the present time and March 15 without interest and penalties. Many property-owners are paying delinquent taxes at the present time since the law went into effect last week where by the delinquent taxes could be paid without the interest and penalties.

R. L. Harris, assessor and collector of taxes, stated Wednesday morning that his office would be open Wednesday night until 10 o'clock and would remain open until midnight Thursday to accommodate the taxpayers and also persons who cannot come to the courthouse during the day due to their working hours.

The assessor and collector's office is a busy place and during the last hours a considerable rush is anticipated. A continual string of persons paying taxes is seen in the office during the day.

Murray Made Fine Impression Upon Texas Legislators

AUSTIN, Jan. 31.—(P)—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, governor of Oklahoma, has made a vivid impression on the Texas legislature.

A resolution was adopted in the house today stating his talk yesterday marked him as a profound scholar, in contrast to some impressions he was a "political opportunist."

Another resolution was prepared requesting the University of Texas to employ Murray as a professor of government and inviting him again to become a citizen of Texas, his native state.

DENTISTS VICTORS IN OPENING ROUND FOR LEGISLATION

AUSTIN, Jan. 31.—(P)—Fight of the Texas State Dental Society for a new law regulating the practice of dentistry was successful in its first legislative test.

After a hearing ending near midnight, the house committee on public health voted, 13 to 5, to report favorably a bill by Representative E. D. Dunlap of Kingsville.

The bill would create a state board of dental examiners of six members for six years, overlapping terms. The present board has six members appointed for two years.

The measure provides for examination prior to licensing, and for revocation of licenses by the board on proof of violations of regulations. Stringent rules regarding advertising are laid down.

More than 200 dentists from over the state attended the hearing, and arguments were heated.

The case of the society was presented by Dr. E. C. Burwick of Austin and Dr. W. O. Talbot of Fort Worth, a former president of the organization.

Opponents included Dr. L. M. Hamman of Houston and Dallas, Sam Low of San Antonio, Dr. Thomas Murray of Waco, Edgar Phelps of Houston, and H. S. Board of Waco.

Poison Liquor Death Toll Has Mounted to 33

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 30.—(P)—The "creeping death" today claimed another poison alcohol victim, the 16th here and the 33rd in three central New York industrial cities. John Poyfard was the latest. He was discharged from the hospital yesterday, but rushed back early today and died soon after.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Jan. 30.—(P)—Numerous white-faced citizens, one by one, applied for hospital treatment today, fearful of having drunk of the poison "white mule" that has spread death in three upstate cities.

With the death toll at 33, Gloverville residents who swallowed alcoholic drinks of uncertain manufacture in the last few days looked anxiously for symptoms of the "creeping death" which has struck down 15 persons here.

Six persons are in the hospital at Utica and eight men and two women are in hospitals here. Twenty others are under observation.

No one known to have consumed the poison liquor has recovered.

The victims were stricken blind and died in agony.

Meanwhile, with the help of those who were able to talk to assistant District Attorney Willard L. Best conducted an all night search for the poison.

Police and state police working with Best analyzed contents of bottles and wine casks taken at various establishments in search for sources of the poisonous liquor.

Officials expressed the belief that had located one of the sources of the lethal beverage in a raid last night on a warehouse. A large quantity of denatured alcohol was seized and two men, Frank Fanelli, 22, and John Nole, 33, were arrested.

They were charged with possessing denatured alcohol with intent to redistill it for beverage purposes.

POISON PURCHASES TRACED TO WOMAN INDICTED MURDER

SCHOOLBOY REFUSED TO DRINK COFFEE WITH POISONED SON

HOUSTON, Jan. 30.—(P)—Investigators sought today to trace new poison purchases to Mrs. Dora Bullock, Frost, to bolster indictment charging her and her estranged second husband, George Frost, with the deaths of her first husband and three children.

Tom Harris, assistant district attorney, announced that federal agents had returned yesterday that a purchase of poison at a Houston drug store had been traced to the 46-year-old woman.

The 40-year-old former insurance agent whom Mrs. Frost married only a few months after the death of her first husband, lost his position, Harris said, when he turned in a premium on an insurance policy on himself.

They were charged with insurance policies aggregating $4,740 on the lives of the four who died. He said poison had been found in all the bottles.

The indictments named the defendants separately in the deaths of J. M. Bullock, 43; Vernon Bullock, 11 months old; Leola Bullock, 10; and Woodrow Wilson Bullock, 17. All died within the last two and a half years.

Harris said the state had obtained a statement from a schoolmate of Woodrow Wilson Bullock who said he refused because of a "queer" taste to drink coffee at the Bullock home which the Bullock boy drank shortly before he became fatally ill.

LITTLE OPPOSITION TO CONTINUANCE OF LOCAL COMMITTEES

LESS THAN ONE-THIRD OF COTTON CONTRACT SIGNERS PARTICIPATED

Little opposition was noted on the part of 1934-35 federal cotton acreage reduction contract signers to the continuance of a majority of the same community committees for the 1935 campaign in the balloting conducted last week according to a canvass of the votes Monday afternoon. About a hundred additional votes were received Tuesday and were included in the final report. A meeting of the committee will be held at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock to elect the central county committee.

No changes were reported in committee men but two were added—Dawson in Beat 3 to replace some who could not serve. Local officials stated that the 1935 campaign should be speeded materially by the continuance of the men who were trained in the work last year, and fewer returned contracts and errors should result from their familiarity with the work to be done.

Slightly more than thirty percent of the contract signers in the county participated in the election of the committee men, according to the final canvass. Ballots were mailed to all contract signers last week and all votes were to have returned by the past weekend. A total of 2478 ballots were cast, with 2358 in favor of the old committee men, and 120 in favor of the new.

Some cases only one of two changes in each beat were opposed. The vote was canvassed Monday by D. P. Roman, J. T. Montfort, C. W. Guntter and J. S. Murphree.

About thirty ballots could not be counted either because of contract signer did not sign their names or failed to vote "yes" or "no."

The committee men who will serve for 1935 are:

JED C. ADAMS DIES PNEUMONIA TUESDAY IN WASHINGTON HOME

TEXAN HAD BEEN MEMBER BOARD TAX APPEALS NEARLY TWO YEARS

KAUFMAN, Jan. 30.—(P)—Funeral services for Jed C. Adams, member of the United States board of tax appeals who died last night in Washington, today were set for 10 a. m. Saturday at Kaufman, his birthplace here in 1931.

The services will be held in the home of Mrs. Temple Nash, sister-in-law of Judge Adams' widow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(P)—Official Washington paid high tribute today to the memory of Jed C. Adams, 50, member of the United States board of tax appeals, who died of pneumonia late last night.

He sought to resign from the Democratic national committee upon his appointment to the board of tax appeals, but an effort to name Vice President John Garner succeeded him failed at a meeting of the state committee in Dallas, and James A. Farley declined to accept his resignation. He left the committee, however, the next day when President Roosevelt suggested that committee men holding appointive public office resign.

Roosevelt supporter. He was a Roosevelt supporter after Garner retired from the presidential race at the Chicago convention, and was a consultant on the conduct of the national campaign after the convention.

Mrs. Adams is the former Allie Nash of Kaufman. The son, Nash Adams, lives in Dallas and the daughter here.

Jed Cobb Adams, a former Democratic national committeeman for Texas, although active in politics, sought public office but once.

In 1908 he sought and was elected to a four-year term as county attorney of Kaufman county. He was a Texas delegate to the 1904 Democratic national convention at St. Louis and four years later of Uvalde. Before that he had served ten years as national committeeman.

He served as state's attorney in Kaufman county from 1898 to 1902. He was named United States attorney for the northern district of Texas in 1919 but resigned in 1920.

Born in Kaufman, Jan. 14, 1878, and educated at Southwestern University, Georgetown, and the Bingham School in Asheville, N. C. He received an LL.D. degree from Jefferson school of law in 1931.

CONVALESCENCE AND GOOD LOOKS

WHEN YOU'VE HAD THE FLU

Nothing like a few beauty treatments to speed up convalescence, and restore not only good looks, but health as well! Miss Forbes has some good suggestions along this line.

If you want to hasten your own convalescence, or that of a friend, just try the beauty treatment way. There has been so much fluff about lately that I'm sure a large proportion of my readers are in just that discouraged state which a bout of flu invariably produces. You not only look thoroughly neglected, but you don't really exist. Theoretically, you'd like to have a lot of things done to hair, scalp, face and nails, but it's all too much effort. So you do nothing.

Now, if you are able to have some one come in and do all these things for you, why a marvelous thing that would be! Well, I know a young woman who makes a nice weekly salary doing just that. I know of still another one who writes me she is trying to successfully. Graduate beauty experts both, only unable to get regular work. If you have been ill, try and have someone come in and "do" you—face, hair, or choose a warmish afternoon, and a friend for company.

Wrap warm towels around your head, so the oil soaks in. You have a good start now toward a shampoo that will put your scalp in condition. Besides, with such an oily head, you'll just have to rouse yourself to the effort of having a wash.

So, oil to nourish the impoverished scalp (illness is hard on the hair), a shampoo, the hair set and dried, the nails soaked in oil and manicured—and pretty once more, the face rubbed with half a dozen kinds of soothing and nourishing cream, then ice, powdered and made up—and what a different sort of person you will look like and feel like! Indeed, this sort of afternoon will carry you a week onward to complete recovery.

J. P.—I would have preferred to have to have mailed you a formula for an excellent hair tonic, that would not have been costly to fill. If you care to have it, send the usual stamped self-addressed envelope, and I will forward it to you. In any case, you must get your scalp loosened from the bone! Indeed, this sort of work up a good circulation in it. This is done very easily by massaging the scalp yourself several times a day. Plant your finger tips into the scalp and rotate it, moving along from one place to another until you feel the warm glow from the improved circulation. If you did nothing more than this, and kept it up regularly for months, your scalp condition would improve so that the extreme dryness would be gone, and new hair would be coming along constantly. In a very short time, after the massaging is done, the hair will appear to be more vital, so it gives the effect of being more abundant than it is. Color, too, will be improved. If you care for a henna rinse, and you will be able to give that to your hair yourself, it will color these stray gray hairs, and also give a slightly coppery tint to your light brown hair. Continue to give your scalp the oil rubs, but they will not have to be done so frequently, after you get the scalp acting and secreting normally.

TWO WHITE MEN HELD ON CHARGE STEALING CHICKENS

Two white men were arrested and placed in jail in connection with the alleged theft of Plymouth Rock chickens and a negro was arrested and placed in jail for alleged cottonseed theft by Deputy Sheriff J. M. Westbrook on Thursday morning. No complaints had been filed shortly after noon as the officer was continuing investigations.

Deputy Sheriff Westbrook was advised of the finding of nine under bridge a short distance west of Corsicana, and waited nearby until two men, came and got the fowls and started into Corsicana, and then placed them under arrest. The owner of the fowls was not known early Thursday afternoon.

AIR SERVICE

FEDERAL REGULATION ALL TRANSPORTATION IS RECOMMENDATION

VAST PLAN GOVERNMENT SUPERVISION ENVISIONED
BY JOSEPH B. EASTMAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(P)—A vast plan to extend federal regulation to all important forms of transportation on land, sea and in the air was recommended to congress today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation.

A super-agency in the form of a re-created interstate commerce commission, would rule the nation's far-flung networks of carriers.

Setting his goal as co-ordinated efficient and economical transportation, Eastman urged that instead of the present ICC of 11 men, the new agency have a membership of 16 divided into five units:

1. A finance division of three members.

2. A railroad division of five.

3. A water carrier and air carrier division of three.

4. A control board composed of the chairman of the commission and the heads of the four subsidiary divisions under it.

5. The office of co-ordinator of transportation.

Plan improvements would be continued and would be filled by an ICC member designated by the President. His function would be to plan improvements in the nationwide transportation system. Under the plan proposed by Eastman, the co-ordinator could compel unification of facilities. If orders for co-ordination of facilities were disobeyed fines as high as $20,000 a day could be imposed.

All transportation would be placed under federal control. Dismissal wages would be given men displaced by consolidations of services.

Eastman rejected the "Prince Plan" of regional railroad consolidation and his own plan for government ownership.

He urged amendment of the bankruptcy act to facilitate railroad reorganizations.

Eastman said, "The plan met immediate opposition. Eight of the present members of the ICC in a letter transmitting the report to congress, asserted re-organization of the commission is unnecessary and undesirable."

The ultimate objective, Eastman said, is a "system of transportation for the nation which will supply the most efficient means of transport and furnish service as cheaply as is consistent with fair treatment of labor."

Girl Dead, Youth Believed Fatally Hurt In Crash

HASKELL, Jan. 29.—(P)—Mozelle Stevens, 18, of Seymour died in an ambulance en route to a Stamford hospital today after she was found lying unconscious near a wrecked automobile on Highway No. 30, two miles south of here. Her companion, Roy Smith of Hobbs, N. M., was probably fatally injured.

The victim and Smith her cousin left Seymour this morning for Hobbs, where Miss Stevens planned to stay for several weeks with Mrs. Smith, the mother of a 12-year-old baby.

The car in which they were riding overturned six times when it left the highway on a short curve.

News of County Home Demonstration Clubs

Finch Club.
The women of the Finch Home Demonstration Club met January 25 at the home of Mrs. J. T. Milam. The majority of the members were present. The opening exercises were led by Mrs. Janie Travis.

The following important officers were elected: Mrs. C. B. Beck was elected vice-president; Mrs. Janie Travis, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Fannie Weaver, wardrobe demonstrator for the new year 1935; Mrs. Mary Milam, pantry demonstrator.

After Mrs. Milam was appointed pantry demonstrator the club inspected her pantry and Mrs. Milam made a report of the importance of the pantry.

The explanation of posters and exhibits was given by Eastman. The group discussed and every body entered into the discussion freely.

Since Mrs. Muss Tarrer was ill and unable to be present the subject of making food budget was postponed until a later meeting.

It is hoped that everyone will be present at the meeting February 7 which will be at the home of Mrs. J. T. Milam, as the county agent, Miss Ruth McVail, will be present and give demonstration on the present national food situation.

Mrs. Milam served a course of cake and coffee for refreshments which was enjoyed by everybody.

World Fix Rates.
Laws enabling the commission to fix minimum rail-water rates, establish through routes without regard to how great a distance any road may carry traffic; limit the time in which claims for refunds and reparations can be made.

The commission re-organization and co-ordinator plans were the only ones that evoked any marked opposition in the ICC although a plan to restore the "long and short haul" clause of the Interstate Commerce act to its original form was disapproved. Other recommendations were heartily endorsed.

After urging speedy legislation for water, pipeline and highway transportation control and amendment of the bankruptcy act, the commission said it could not recommend adoption of Eastman's "novel and complex" re-organization plan because:

Any plan is "premature and undesirable" until Congress decides what added duties it wishes to give the commission, if any.

Sound policy would leave details of organization to the commission.

By slight amendment of the Interstate Commerce act the commission could accomplish every major change suggested, which would permit experimentation and prompt rectification of errors.

The commission opposed the permanent co-ordinator plan, saying railroads have just re-organized their co-operative organizations and should be given a chance to demonstrate efficiency of the new organization, the Association of American Railroads.

Eastman said his plan "would give the commission, what it does not now have, a permanent executive officer relieved from many routine duties and with the specific duty of promoting the expansion of the commission."

Eastman said, "The plan met immediate opposition. Eight of the present members of the ICC in a letter transmitting the report to congress, asserted re-organization of the commission is unnecessary and undesirable."

GOVERNOR ALLRED OUTLINES RECOVERY PROGRAM PROJECTS

AGREES WITH PRESIDENT DIRECT RELIEF MUST END
AT EARLIEST TIME

AUSTIN, Jan. 30.—(P)—Governor James V. Allred today suggested that irrigation, flood control and reclamation projects, prevention of erosion, development of hydro-electric power, housing, slum clearance and elimination of dangerous grade crossings should be included in the federal government's recovery program in Texas.

The governor was one of the principal speakers at a conference of Texas representatives of federal recovery agencies with heads of state departments co-operating in the work. He again emphasized the need of long range planning for the judicious expenditure of the approximately $250,000,000 which he said the National government probably would allocate to Texas.

After Mr. Allred's address, Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mr. Allred said, "in his statement to congress that we must bring to an end direct relief at the earliest possible date and substitute in lieu of emergency relief a program of bringing private capital into its proper channels."

Proper Co-Ordination.
"I believe that there should be a proper co-ordination through our state planning board between the people, government and business, and that the state planning board as proposed to be created by Texas shall act as the liaison agency to co-ordinate between the government, business and the people to the end that the money spent in Texas by the federal government may be used to build up a source of permanent support and better economic and living conditions for our citizenship at large."

The governor pointed out that the national administration planned to appropriate $4,800,000,000 to be spent upon public works and rehabilitation and said that approximately $250,000,000 off this amount would be allocated to Texas, "if, as and when our state provides governmental agencies which may accept the benefits thereof."

Wasted Effort.
"In the beginning," Governor Allred said, "governmental agencies spent millions in cutting grass upon highways and the raking of leaves. This furnished employment for many people but did not provide a means of future income for those so employed. The spending by the government of $25,000,000 in Texas means that if this fund is properly and judiciously spent that this great sum will act as a capital investment through which those employed in various public works will build for themselves a means through which they may earn their future support. x x x

The plan of our government is to develop the land, water, and our natural resources but all this is for the single purpose of developing our human resources. Two-thirds of all the homes of Texas are occupied by tenants. Through our various governmental housing programs it is hoped that within the next few years the reverse of this may be true and that two-thirds of the residences may be occupied by a home owning and home-loving citizenship."

In effect, he said, "the plan would provide for a group of small commissions subject to a superior authority to preserve unity in transportation policy."

WEST TEXAS C. C. COMES OUT FAVOR OF STATE SALES TAX

REFERENDUM FAVORS NEW TAX PLAN FOR RELIEF
STATE AND COUNTIES

STAMFORD, Jan. 29.—(P)—Based on a 7 to 1 affirmative reply on a referendum sent to its 212 directors and about 500 members of taxation and public expenditure committees in its 193 membership towns, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce announced today its advocacy of a 2 per cent sales tax for Texas on the last retail sale, "providing the state uses the revenue equitably to fund the outstanding indebtedness of all cities, counties and schools, and providing the local ad valorem tax bills be reduced in accordance with the amount of debt relief secured."

The referendum ballot was the result of a letter from the WTTCC. In the first-in-line with a recommendation by the state taxation committee headed by Sen. Arthur P. Duggan—directors and tax committees voted affirmatively, but by the close margin of 107 to 88, on a 2 per cent sales tax as an outright replacement for the local ad valorem tax.

A meeting in Plainview January 15, the officers' committee of the regional chamber counted the vote, and in view of its closeness tentatively announced it would favor a sales tax for funding the debt of three political subdivisions—cities, counties and schools—provided a clear-cut approval was given on a second referendum.

One Decision.
In announcing today the 7 to 1 decision, James D. Hamlin, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said:

"Real estate or visible property now bears practically all of the burden of city government, of county government, a large share of school government and a great part of state government. The average total taxes assessed on real estate in these subdivisions of government is from $3.50 to $8 per $100 valuation. These taxes must be paid whether the property makes or does not make a return, otherwise these taxes are governmentally imposed upon such properties. Around $50,000,000 in taxes in West Texas are delinquent, and government liens exist against our property to that extent."

Should Fund Debt.
"It is proposed that the state with a sales tax will probably fund the debts of political subdivisions, now estimated to amount to $780,000,000. It is estimated that the state will save $100,000,000 by the adoption of a 2 per cent sales tax. This saving would be used to pay the interest and sinking fund on outstanding debts. If the state takes over the task of funding such outstanding indebtedness a very substantial relief will be given to every ad valorem tax payer in the form of reduced taxes. A most important point of our program is making it mandatory on the political subdivisions to reduce the tax burden of the people with the relief secured; and our proposal is to write into the constitution a limit of 2 per cent on any sales tax that may be levied by the legislature."

The proposition is a supplanting tax and not an additional tax. We are for the sales tax only as a means of relieving the ad valorem tax burden by debt paying, and we would be unalterably opposed to a sales tax if it were an additional tax."

Estimate of Income.
The West Texas Chamber contends that a 2 per cent tax, based on retail sales in Texas of $2,000,000,000 (the 1929 figure), will reduce from $200,000,000 to $40,000,000 annually, which would completely amortize the $780,000,000 debt of political subdivisions in 4 years at 3 per cent interest.

The original Duggan proposition of supplanting the state ad valorem tax, which is only 25 cents, would afford only 6 per cent relief," said Hamlin's statement. "The West Texas Chamber of Commerce proposition would reduce the taxpayer's bill by 40 per cent and up, since most of the folks have a total ad valorem tax bill of $4 and higher in the combination of city, county, school and state taxes."

The bond-funding plan can be put into operation only through an amendment to the state constitution, and the West Texas Chamber proposes to work for that, Hamlin said.

TWENTY-ONE BOYS QUINTS WILL COMPETE IN FROST TOURNAMENT

TEXAS SENATE VOTES
NINETEEN TO TEN TO REJECT DEFINITELY

AMENDMENT SUBMITTED 10 YEARS AGO FINALLY DISPOSED OF THIS SESSION

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—(P)—Ratification of the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution was definitely rejected today by the senate of the Texas legislature.

By a vote of 19 to 10 the senate refused to overturn an adverse report of the constitutional amendments committee on a resolution to ratify the amendment which was submitted 10 years ago.

"That definitely kills ratification at this session," said Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, an ardent foe.

After an extensive hearing, the senate committee yesterday voted seven to four against ratification. Senator Olan R. Van Zandt of Tloga, who prepared a minority report, asked the senate to permit a direct vote on ratification by ordering official printing of the resolution.

Sensors Holbrook and John W. Hornsby of Austin, who introduced the ratification resolution for the purpose of getting it killed, immediately objected and moved to table.

Early in the session opponents, confident of a substantial majority, sought to kill the resolution but delayed their action to permit a public hearing.

Speedy action on pending appointments by both Governor James V. Allred and former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson was indicated by the setting of a meeting of the committee on Governor's nominations in the senate for tomorrow.

Education Board Appointed.
Interest revolved around the appointment by former Governor Ferguson of three members of the state board of education, confirmation of which would give the Ferguson administration a majority on the important board.

Likewise, Governor Allred had sent up some important nominations, including three members of the livestock sanitary commission, a state casualty insurance commissioner and others.

As a prelude to an indicated stormy session of the senate on Thursday to consider a house resolution calling for publication of employment and retainers of legislators, the senate squabbled over an invitation of the four house authors to appear.
